DEDICATION

THE Class of Nineteen Hundred and Nine of the University of Washington dedicates this volume of the Tyee to the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition which will erect its gleaming palaces on our campus, which will make our campus a spot on which will mingle all the races of the earth and a place where will be displayed all the wonders of science, art, commerce and invention.

FOREWORD

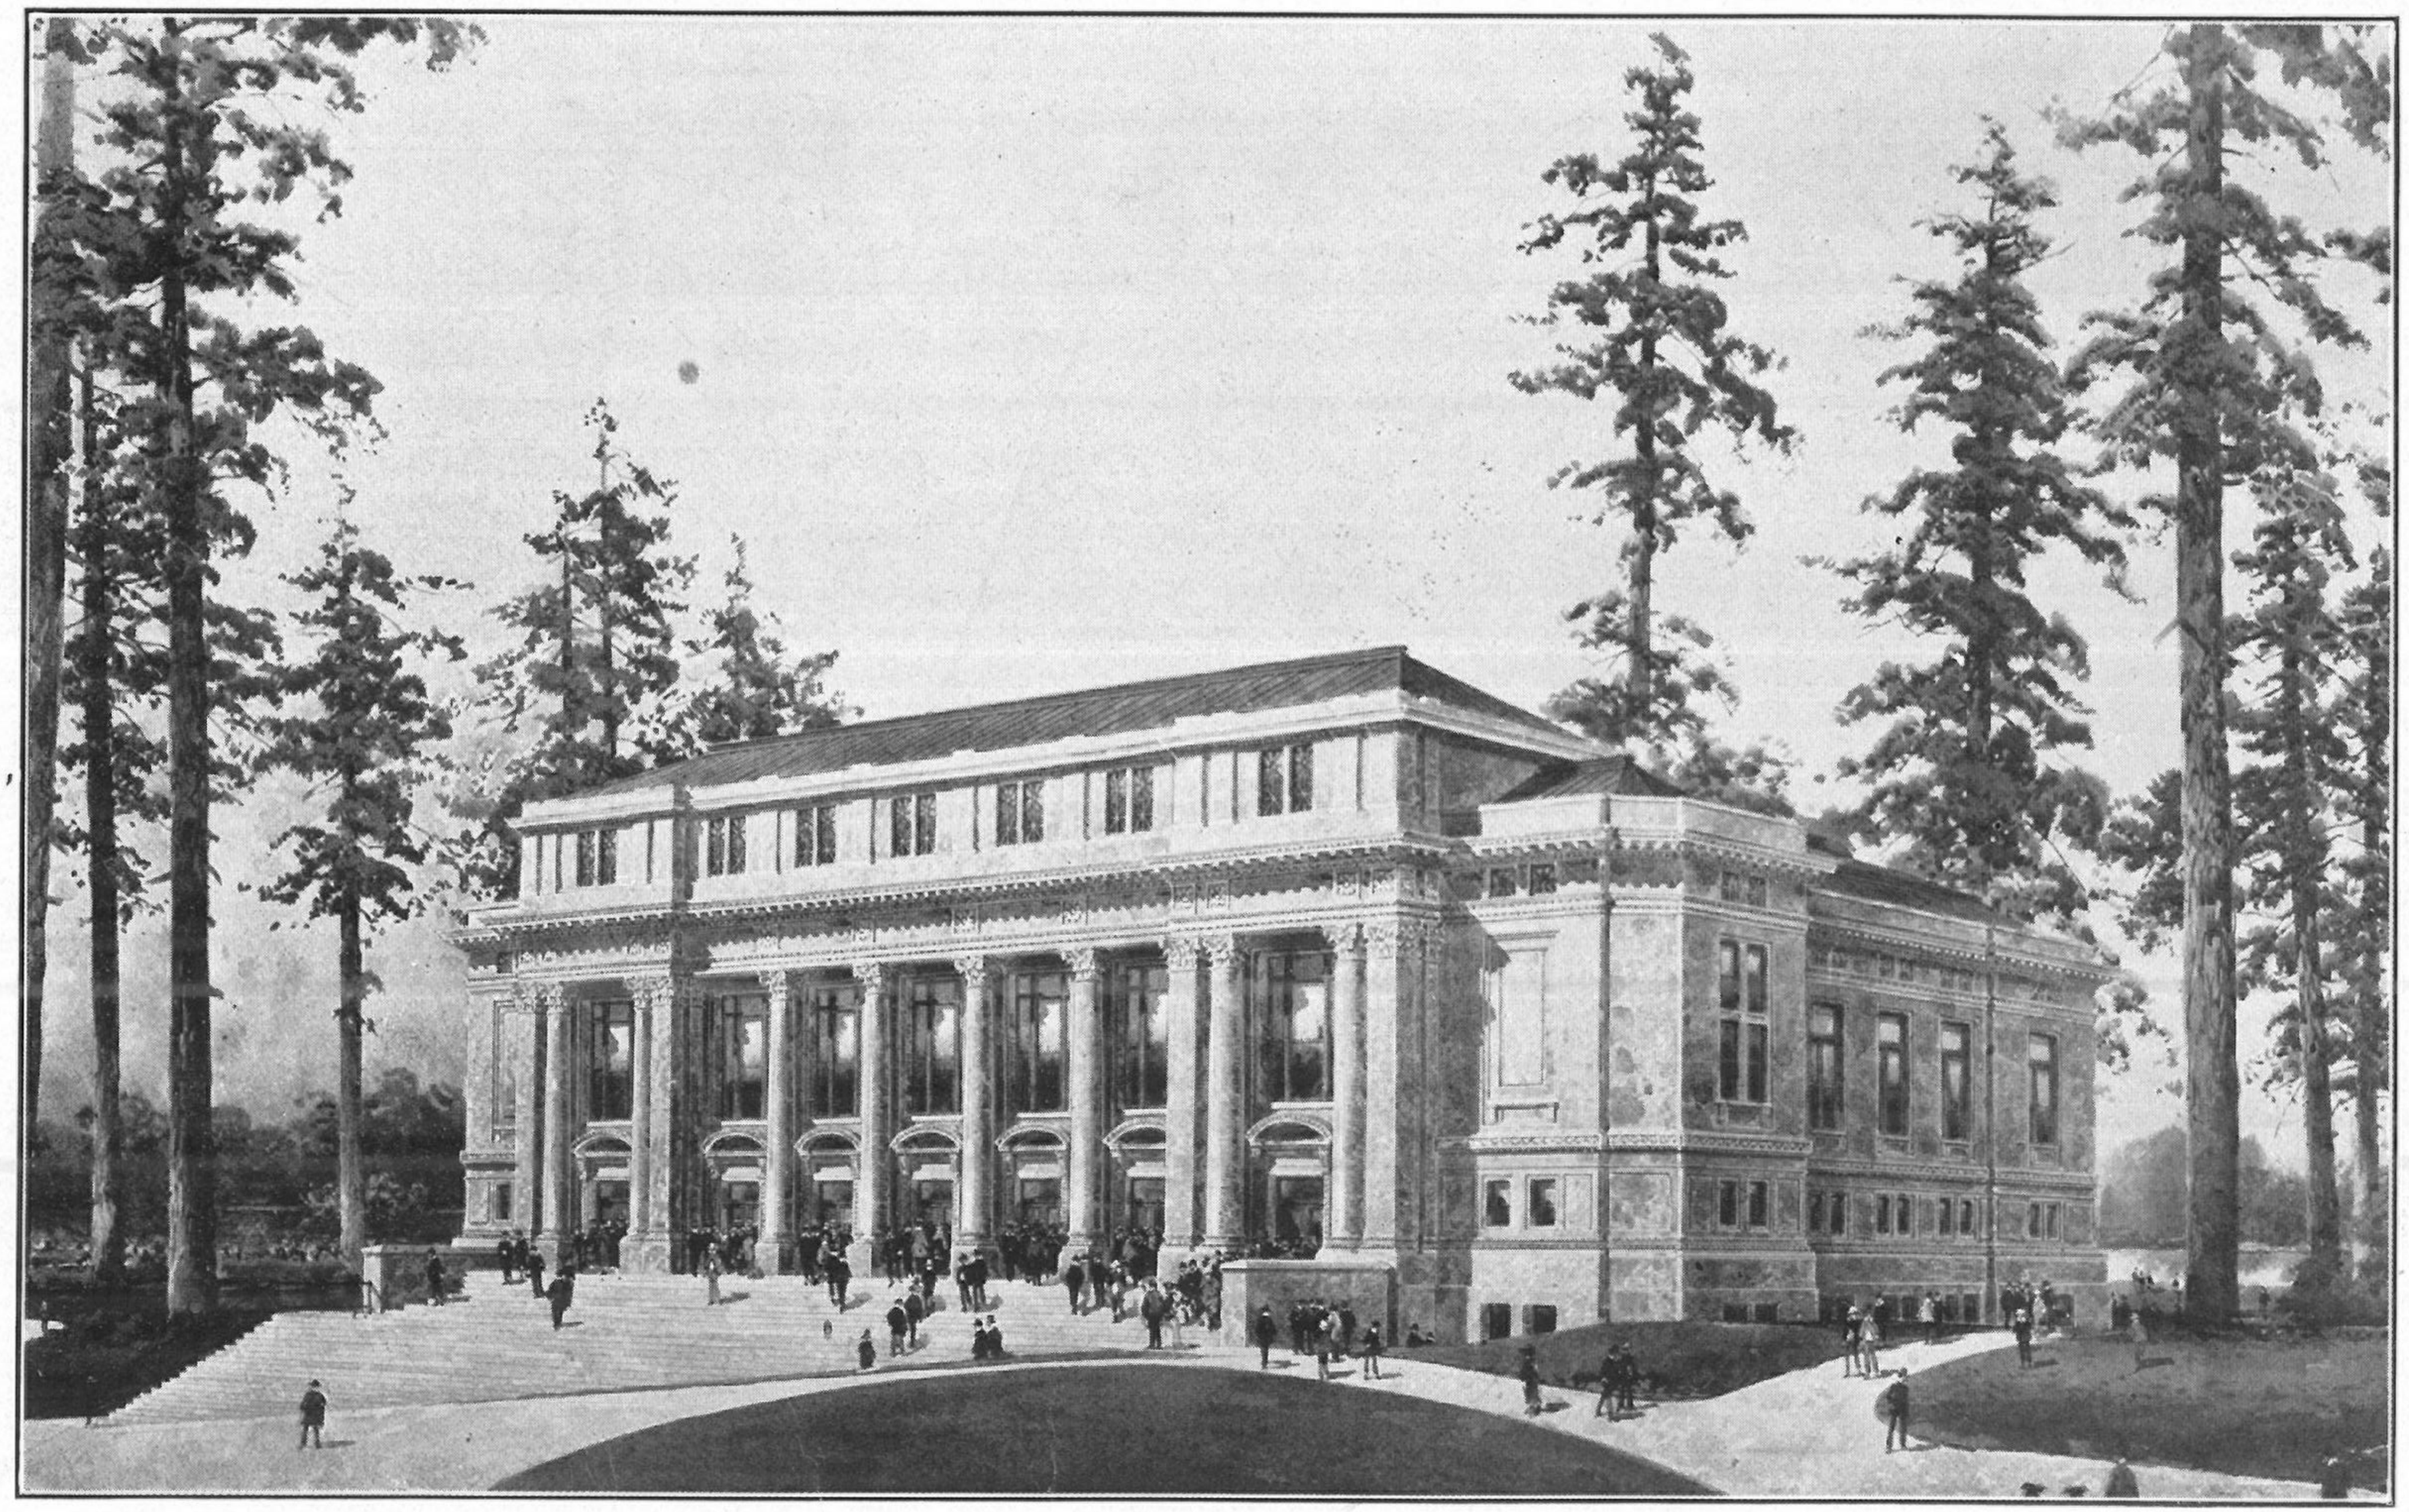

EARNESTLY, from year to year, do the Juniors strive to make the Tyee a perfect year book of the University of Washington. Each volume of the Tyee is an annual record, whose compilation having been entrusted to the Juniors, is a duty which each succeeding class of Juniors takes pride in discharging creditably; and as our University expands and develops to take its place among the great Universities, so do we aim to maintain the Tyee at a standard consistent with the increasing greatness of the University. The Class of 1909 puts forth this, the Ninth Volume, hoping that it has faithfully maintained this standard.

The general features of preceding volumes are retained in this one, as by so doing we help to perpetuate, as we ought, typical phases of college life at this University.

AUDITORIUM.

Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition

On June 22, 1906, the committee on the selection of a site for the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition of 1909 met and decided upon the unused portion of the campus of the University of Washington as the best suited and most beautiful grounds on which to hold the Pacific World's Fair. On that date the great and brilliant future of the University was decided. Not that the University of Washington did not have a bright future ahead of it, but the decision of the Exposition management assured the more rapid growth of the institution.

This was proved when the legislature of the State of Washington, in making its appropriaion of $1,000,000 for the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, set aside $600,000 of this sum for the erection of three permanent buildings which will give the University a new Assembly Hall, a new Chemistry Building and a new Engineering Building after the Pacific World's Fair closes. The expenditure of several hundred thousands of dollars in clearing and grading the exposition site, in beautifying the University's grounds, practically is another present that gives in a few years an impetus toward an end that would take under natural conditions of growth many years to reach. Then there are the several permanent buildings that the exposition will erect and the many smaller ones that will be erected by the different states, countries, associations and individual exhibitors which will be donated toward the already fine structures on the University campus.

When the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition closes, with the grounds laid out according to the original plan of the famous landscape artist, John C. Olmsted, of Brookline, Massachusetts; with the avenues, boulevards, circles and plazas beautified; with the grounds supplied with a water and sewer system, and with the many additional buildings left standing, the University of Washington will have grown more than twice as large in the short time of two years.

As the success of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition will be of great benefit to the U. of W. it is proper that in this year's Tyee an outline of the plan and scope of the Pacific World's Fair be given.

Very first in the minds of the officials is the idea to make the Exposition different in every respect possible from previous world's fairs. One policy in this line stands out above all others. No money will be asked from Uncle Sam to carry on the work. Just an appropriation from Congress is desired, so that the United States Government can be represented by buildings and exhibits in the same manner as other countries and the different states. This the government will do by expending nearly a million dollars, for exhibits and the following buildings: Government, Alaska. Hawaii, Philippines and Fisheries.

Different again from many former expositions, the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition will not commemorate any particular event; it will not depend upon historical sentiment to arouse enthusiasm and induce participation. It will be a great international industrial and commercial affair to aid as far as possible in the development of the world.

The primary object of the exposition is to exploit the resources and potentialities of Alaska and the Yukon and to make known and foster the vast importance of the trade of the Pacific Ocean and of the countries bordering upon it. In addition it will demonstrate the marvelous progress of Western America.

The exposition site is the most beautiful ever used for such a purpose. It is 250 acres in extent and borders for more than a mile and a half on Lake Union and Lake Washington, the latter being the largest body of fresh water in the Pacific Northwest. Within the city limits, it is convenient to all parts of Seattle and is only twenty minutes' ride by electric car from the business center. The Olympic and Cascade mountains may be seen from the grounds and an unobstructed view may be obtained of the perpetual snow peaks of Mt. Rainier and Mt. Baker. Tall, stately giants of the forest form beautiful vistas; and gentle slopes, commanding terraces and unsurpassed stretches of water front add to the beauty of the exposition's setting. In the erection of the buildings every precaution has been taken to preserve nature's own handiwork.

Twelve large exhibit palaces will form the main part of the exposition. Around these will cluster the state, foreign and concessions buildings, and smaller exhibit structures; the main exhibit buildings will be: United States Government, Alaska, Yukon, Manufactures, Agriculture and Horticulture, Machinery, Forestry, Fine Arts, Fisheries, Mines, Hawaii and Philippines.

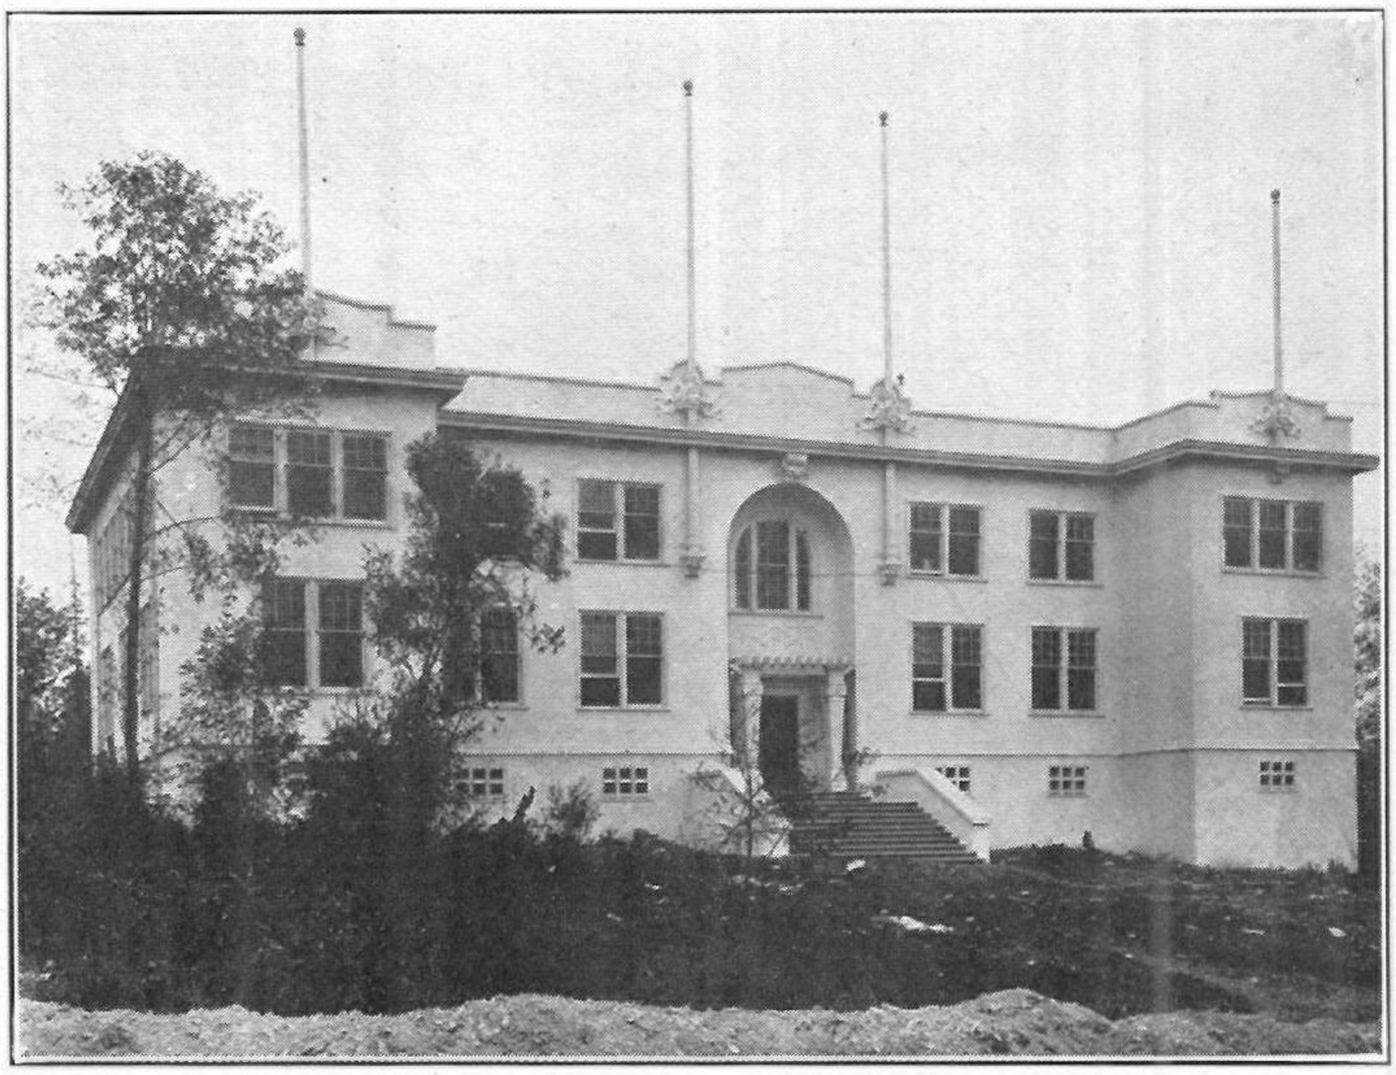

It will be remembered that to start the exposition off right, the people of Seattle got together, October 2, 1906, and raised $650,000 in one day by the purchase of stock in the exposition corporation, something that was never done before by any city at any time for any purpose. The capital stock was placed at $500,000, but when the business day was over it was discovered that the stock had been over-subscribed to the tune of $150,000. The capital stock was then increased to $800,000, all of which will be sold in Seattle before the exposition opens.

As stated before, the State of Washington at the legislative session of 1906-07 appropriated $1,000,000 for its representation at the exposition. Oregon and California have each appropriated $100,000 for their participation with assurances that more funds will be forthcoming at the 1909 meetings of their legislatures. Other states that have made preliminary appropriations are: Pennsylvania, $75,000; Missouri, $10,000; Utah, $2,000; Nebraska, $15,000. Assurances have been given that the following commonwealths will appropriate funds at their next legislatures: New York, Massachusetts, Montana, Kentucky, Idaho, Nevada, Wisconsin, Wyoming, Kansas, Illinois, Minnesota, Ohio, Iowa and Colorado.

Foreign participation will be confined strictly to the countries bordering upon the Pacific Ocean. There are twenty-four of these nations which are vitally interested in the purpose of the exposition: Great Britain, France, Germany, Russia and the Netherlands will be invited to make exhibits representative of their interest in Pacific trade development.

On June 1, 1907, before a crowd of fifteen thousand persons, ground breaking ceremonies were held, with many prominent men making addresses, among whom was Hon. John Barrett, director of the International Bureau of American Republics, representing President Roosevelt. From that date to the present time work has been going on rapidly upon the Exposition grounds.

In Memoriam

PETER VON LE FORT.

Professor Le Fort was granted leave of absence for the year 1907-08 on account of ill health. He repaired to his native home in Germany in the hope of regaining his health, but after a prolonged illness, he died at his home in Eberswalde on November 7th.

Upon the receipt of the news of his death memorial services were conducted at the University by the members of the Faculty.

Professor Le Fort received his education at the University of Lausanne and later received a degree from Leland Stanford Jr. University. He came to the University of Washington as an instructor of French in 1905.

Washington Beloved

Thy name, O Washington renowned,
We hail, we hail from far and near,
Thy glories joyfully resound,
In song of praise and mighty cheer.

Thy fame, O Washington serene,
Leads on, leads on up toward the sky,
While we through every changing scene,
Thy purple pennants lift on high.

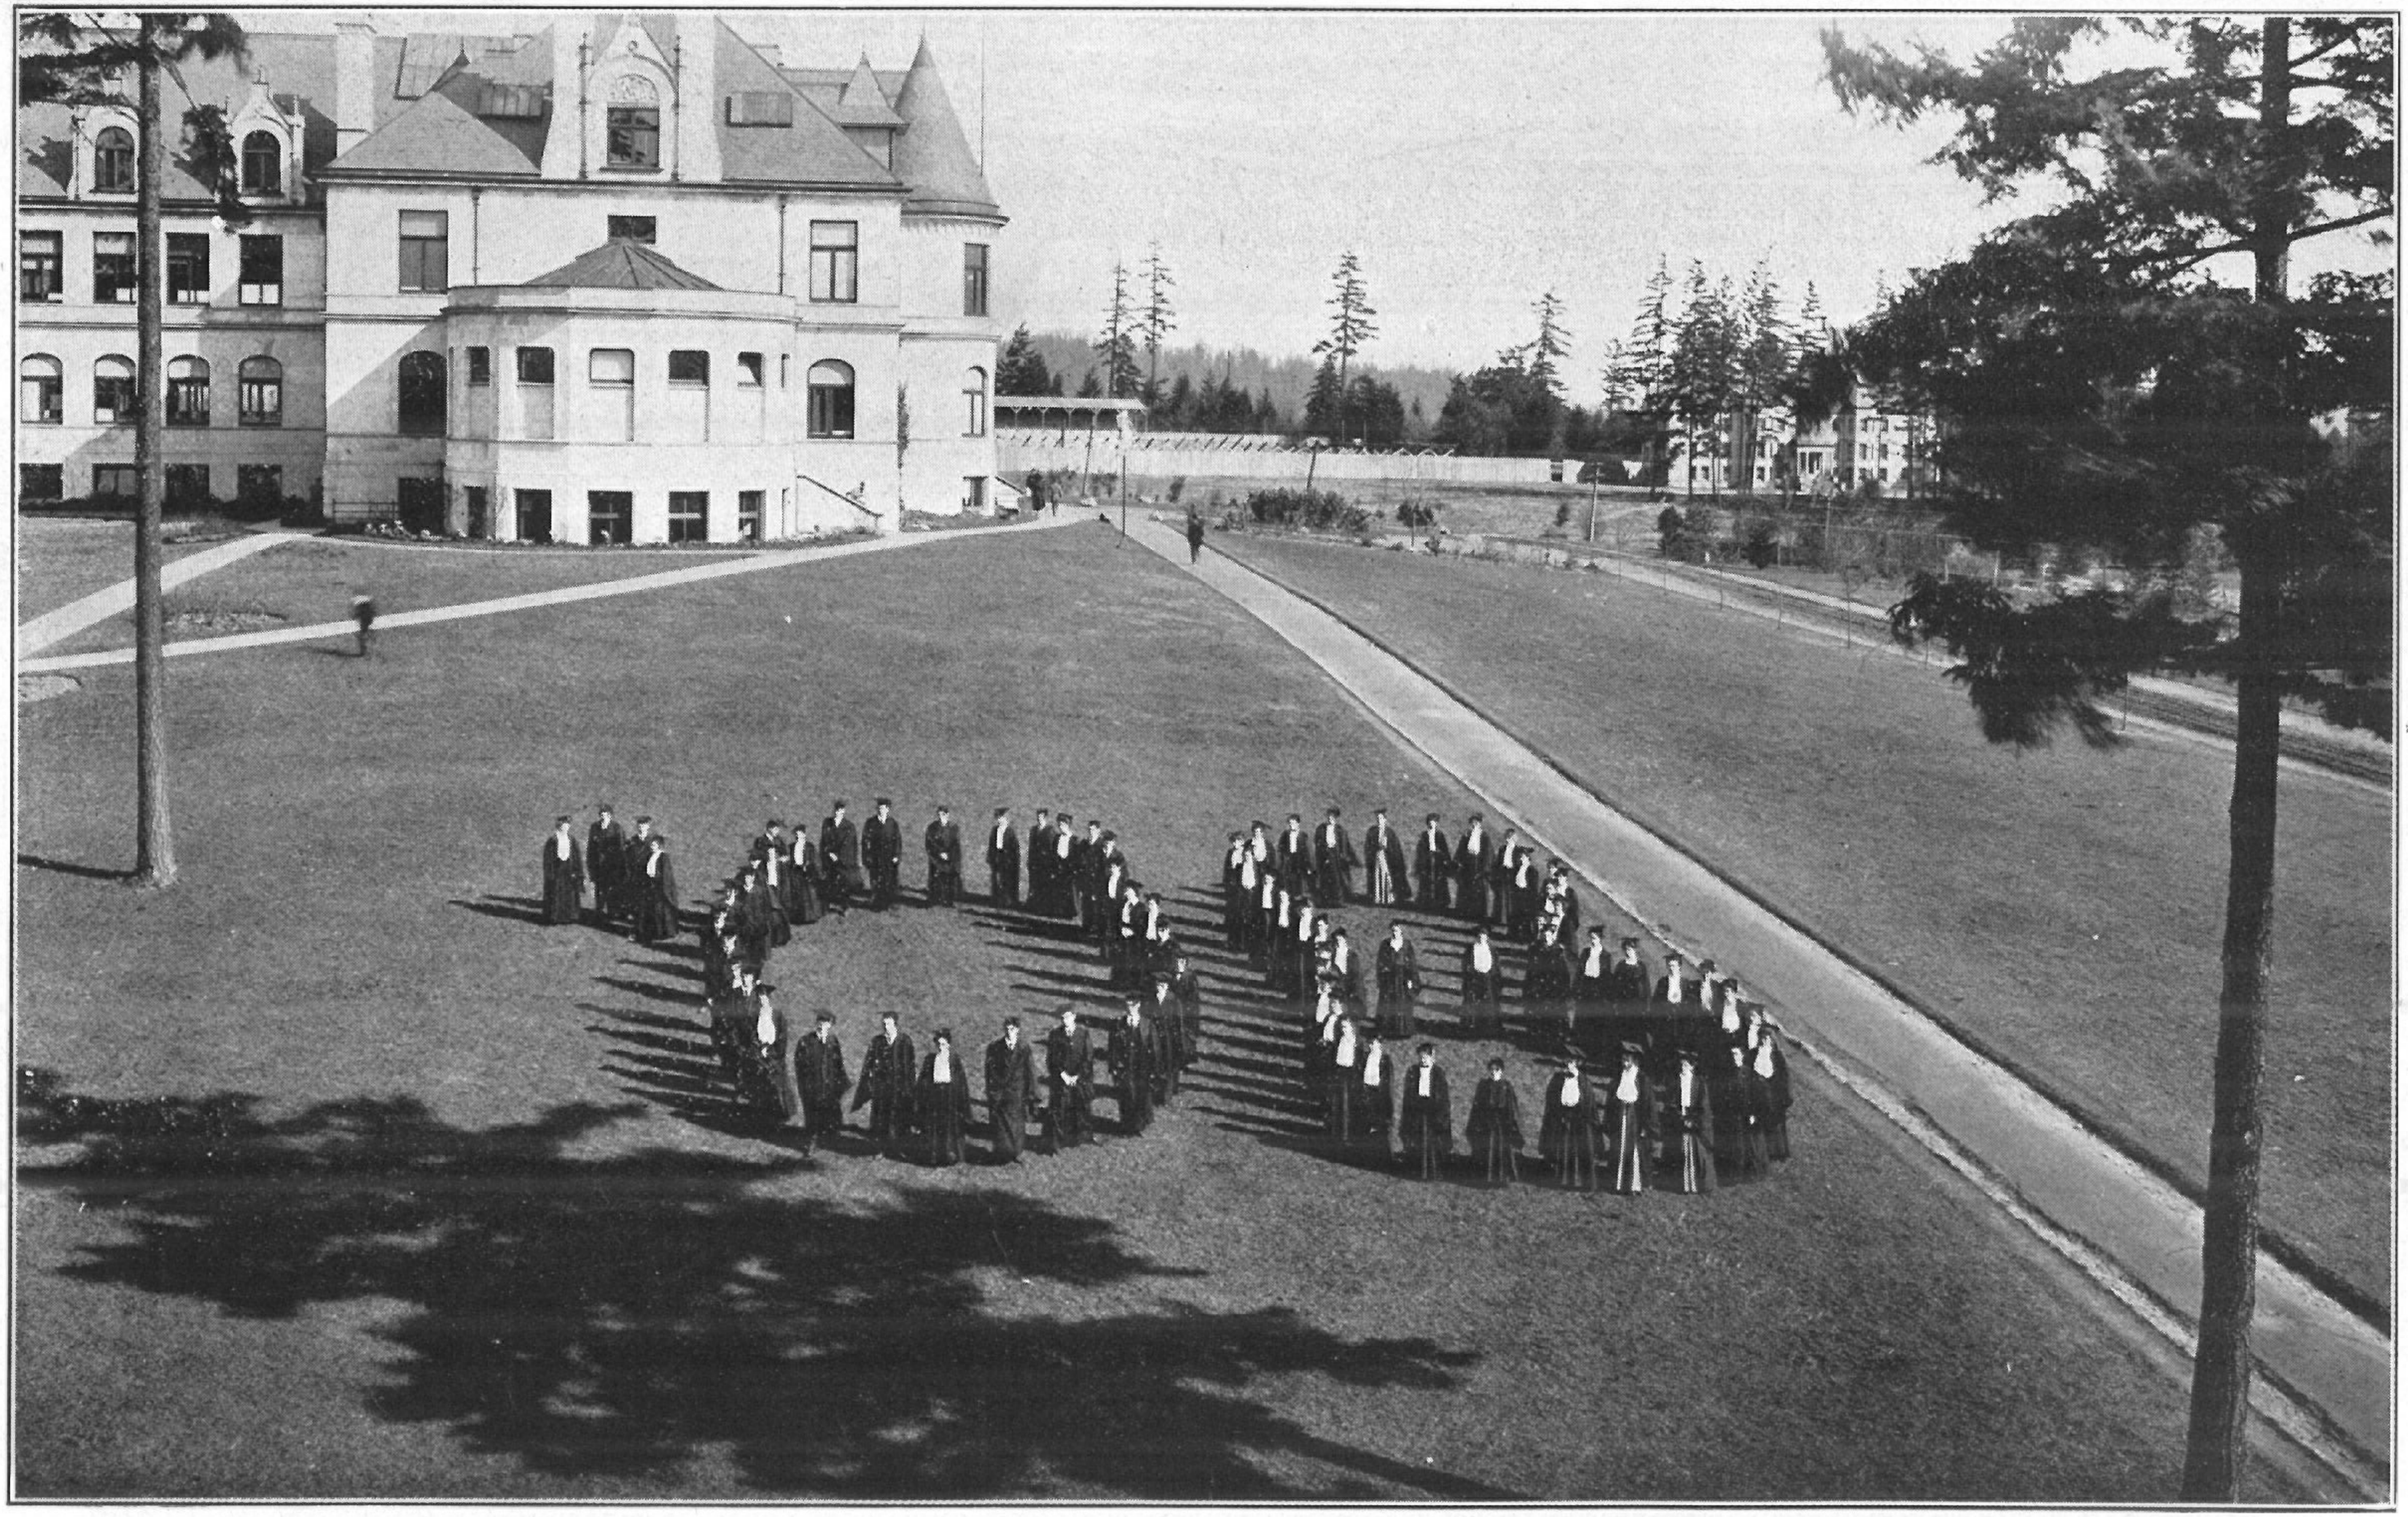

Thy deeds, O Washington benign,
Will last, will last as hills of stone,
While we like ore the fires refine,
Will ring forth praise to thee alone.

Thy sons, O Washington beloved,
Lift up, lift up their heads in pride,
By whatsoever sea removed,
To thee, their lives in love are tied.

Edmond S. Meany.

(Set to music by Reginald de Koven and rendered by Men's Glee Club in 1907.)

Junior Class History

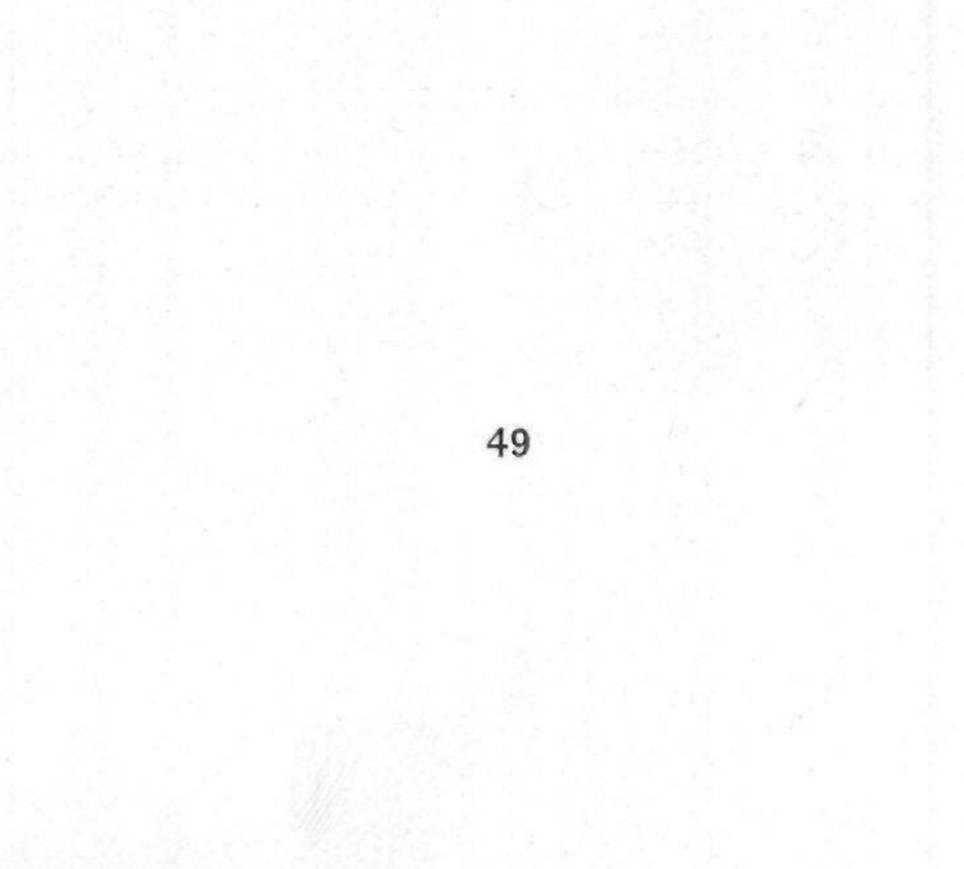

As the fish of the sea, the beasts that roam the valley and hilltop, the fowl that fly thru the ethereal air, lift up their hearts and swell the chorus of cherubs and cherubim, seraphs and seraphim, angels and archangels wafting paeans of praise above, so do all things, great and small, the infinitely large and the infinitely little, from the President down to Sallie Snooks, from Prof. J. Allen Smith down to Sidey, from the "high brow" to the most abject flunker, from Babcock and Vic Place down to the 90 lb. coxswains, from Connie to Chi Winn, in short from the infinite to zero, do all creeping, crawling, swimming, walking, flying creatures known to infest the campus unconsciously render homage and tribute to that magnificent product of the present age—The Class of 1909.

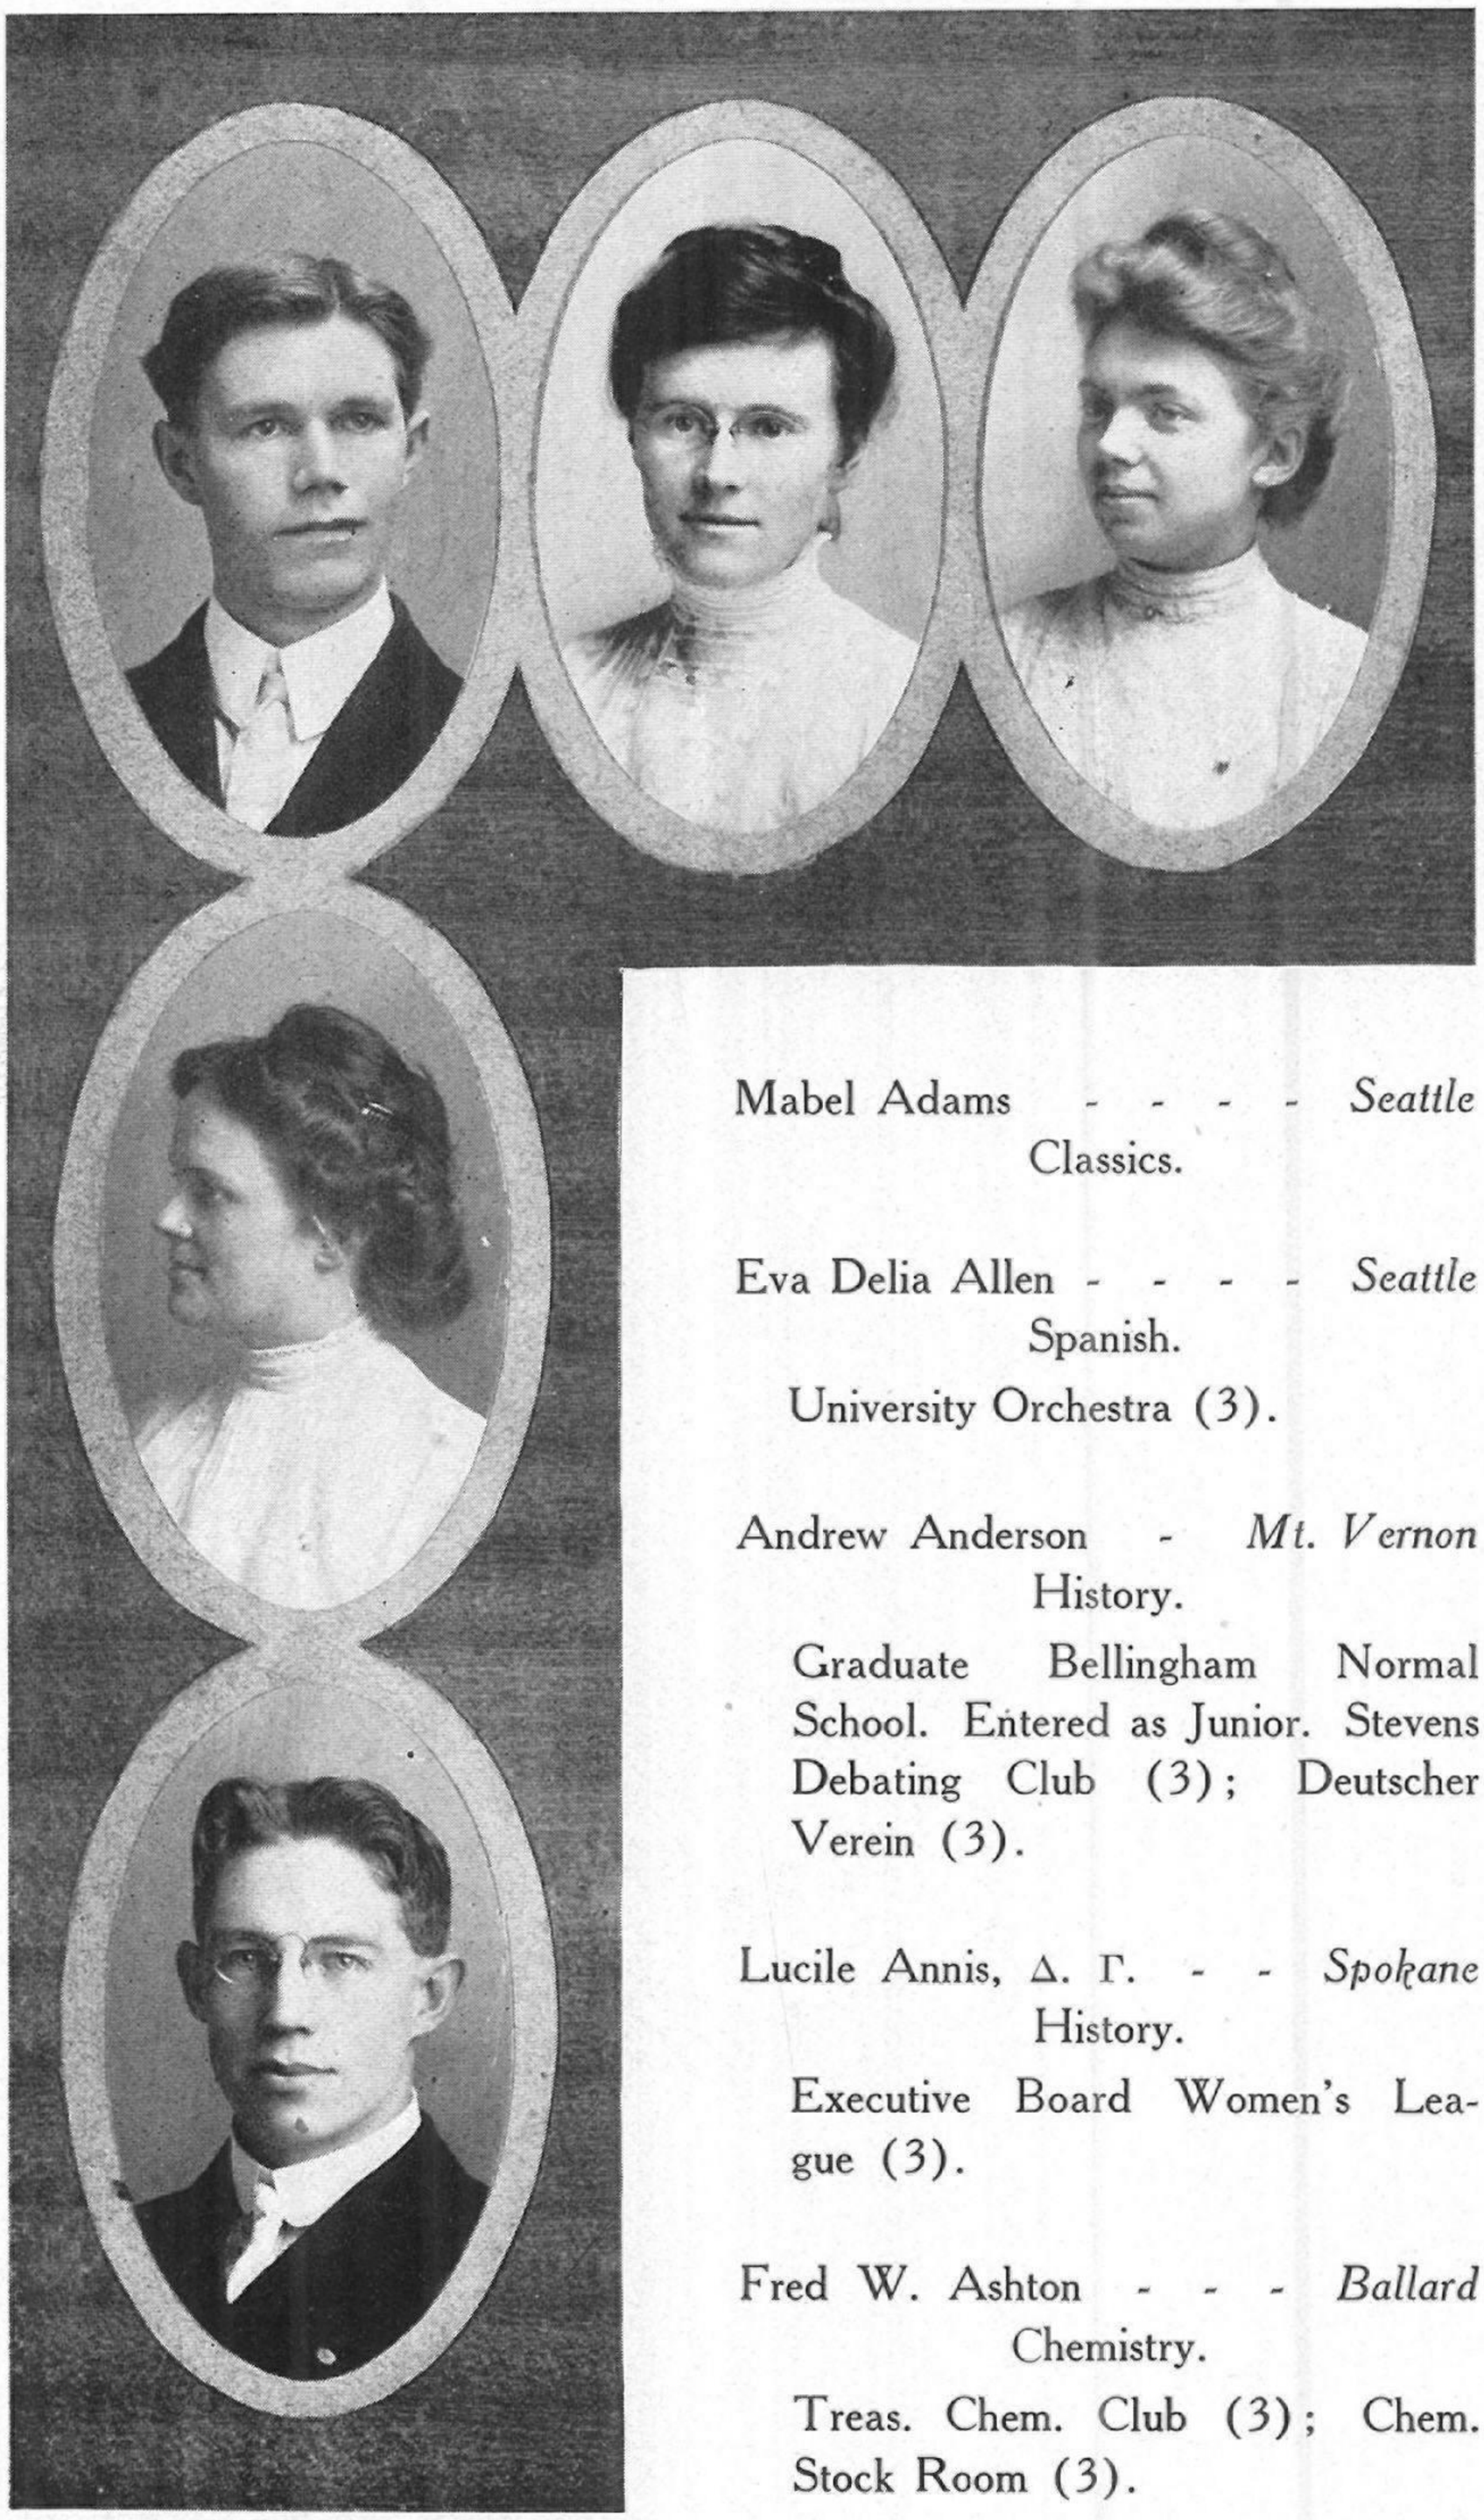

Preceding classes have but served to prepare a waiting world, from creation's dawn down thru the dark ages to this enlightened period, for that triumph of Nature which burst upon this expectant planet in its effulgent splendor and gave to this puny spheroid all its ideas of the grand, the noble, the sublime, the majestic, and the beautiful which are embodied in those all-embracing numerals—1909.

Among those collegiate and intercollegiate activities in which the prowess of the Junior Class stands supreme are Football, Track, Rowing, Tennis, Music, Journalism, Debate and Oratory. Can any class point with finger of pride at such mighty knights of the pigskin as Bantz, Tegtmeier, Flaherty, Mackey and Reser, or fleet footed runners as Parker and Vernon, or such doughty oarsmen as Jarvis (now, alas, overweight), and O'Brien? Juniors are mainstay of the Tennis Club, a '09 man being president. In the various musical organizations this incomparable class furnishes the most tuneful singers and polished players.

What class can claim such a glittering galaxy of debaters and orators as Hemphill, Harris, Zednick and Durham? When was the Wave most successful as a college paper? The truthful must answer, "this year," when it was edited and managed by Juniors. And so the roll of achievements runs on. Junior talents shine even brighter during emergencies, for this class unfortunately had three Tyee editors in succession and yet they publish the best annual ever gotten out and do it in one month's time. Tho' this class suffered more than any other thru the devastating hand of the faculty no class bore up better under the strain than ours. Who originated the "dodger" idea for correcting abuses—why, Juniors, of course. Thus we could go on ad infinitum were there not a shorter way to disclose to the curious reader the countless exploits and accomplishments of the wonderful class of 1909. To the dubious or distrustful we unhesitatingly refer to the fore part of this book, where he who runs may read, modestly inscribed under each Junior's picture, the records which in the aggregate demonstrate that the Class of 1909 is the greatest, the most praiseworthy, least blameworthy and in general terms the most remarkable class ever fostered by our Alma Mater, the University of Washington.

In Memoriam

"We have but faith: we cannot know;
For knowledge is of things we see;
And yet we trust it comes from Thee,
A beam in darkness: let it grow."

EDITH VOGT, 1887-1907.

The entire University was deeply impressed with the shock and the sadness of Miss Vogt's death.

She was one of the most respected and beloved members of the class of 1908, and was looking forward with enthusiasm to the successes promised for her senior year at the time of her sudden death by drowning in Lake Washington on May 19, 1907, when in the same accident two friends, students from Stanford University, also met death by drowning. Miss Vogt was born in La Nares, Iowa, spent part of her girlhood in Montana, and was a graduate of the Seattle High School.

GUSTAV WILHELM ADOLPH SCHOENING, 1882-1907.

The lonely soul of this German lad clung to the few friends he acquired in a land far from his home, and these friends sincerely mourned his death.

He was born in Nendorf-by-Entorf, Germany, and, so far as known, had no relatives in this country except an uncle in California. After two successful years in a special course in this University he suddenly developed an alarming despondency. He was sent to his uncle in California, but evidently he retraced his steps and took his own life, as his body was found in the water of Seattle harbor, on June 23, 1907.

MARGARET DABNEY, 1888-1908.

The Freshman class mourns the loss of one of its bright and cheerful members in the death of Miss Dabney.. The Junior class extends its sympathy over this bereavement.

Miss Dabney was born in Spokane on May 31, 1888. She received her preparatory education in the East High School of Rochester, New York, and entered the Freshman class of the University of Washington last September. She died of appendicitis on February 21, 1908.

"But One Winneth the Prize"

"They who run in a race, run all,
But one winneth the prize."
They who struggle and risk may fall,
But brave hearts quickly rise.

Surrounded by youths with strong brawn and brain,
My old heart forgets not its singing in tune;
The cadence of college, wild yell, and refrain,
All throb as of yore in life's gayest noon.
As victors we shout, with our hats in the air,
Our heroes proclaiming with torch and parade;
Our colors triumphant, our foes in despair,
Glories so brilliant can nevermore fade.
Yet behold the strong hearts in hour of defeat,
With a cheer for opponents they rush to the field,
Lift the vanquished on high; no loss is complete
With a thousand brave mates for comfort and shield.

They who struggle and risk may fall,
But brave hearts quickly rise.
"They who run in a race, run all,
But one winneth the prize."

The Northwest Conference

Loren D. Grinstead
Washington's Representative

ATHLETICS of all forms in the Northwest colleges have been placed on a well defined basis by the agreement between the various institutions of this section at the Walla Walla conference, on February 8. At this time representatives of the University of Idaho, the University of Oregon, the Univeristy of Washington, Washington State College, Oregon Agricultural College and Whitman College drew up a set of rules governing professionalism and determining fixed rules of eligibility.

Much confusion has in the past arisen from the fact that the various competing institutions had no common ground or scale on which to work. All contracts between the athletic managers of different colleges had to go at length into stating conditions. This necessarily led to much difficulty. But by the Northwest Conference agreement these differences have been overcome and perfect relations exist between all of the institutions represented.

The agreement follows:

PREAMBLE.

This agreement made and entered into this 8th day of February, 1908, by and between the institutions subscribed hereto is for the purpose of determining and regulating all athletic contests that shall take place between representatives of the several institutions party hereto and shall be binding upon said institutions for the period of two years from, and after the date of taking effect hereof.

RULES OF ELIGIBILITY.

1. No student who has participated in any intercollegiate games, or contests, during four previous years shall represent any institution in this conference in any intercollegiate game or contest.

2. No student who has been registered in any other college or university, or who has less than full Freshman standing in his institution, shall participate in any collegiate game or contest until he shall have been a student of the institution which he desires to represent at least one college year.

3. No student shall represent his institution in any intercollegiate game or contest, unless he be carrying successfully three-quarters of the regular work required by his institution.

4. No student shall represent his institution in any intercollegiate game or contest, who has total delinquencies on his previous record in that institution equivalent to one-half of the full amount of the prescribed work for any semester.

5. No student shall represent his institution in any intercollegiate game or contest who registers later than 21 days after the first day set for registration in the semester in which he desires to compete.

6. Bona fide students, who are carrying the required amount of work, shall not be debarred from athletics because they are working to earn part of their expenses and receiving no more than ordinary compensation for such services.

7. No student shall represent an athletic club or other organization, other than his institution, during any college calendar year.

AMATEUR RULE.

1. No student shall compete in any athletic contest in this conference who is not an amateur.

2. An amateur is a person who has never competed for money, under a false name, or with professionals for a prize, nor who has at any time taught, pursued or assisted at athletic exercises for money or other valuable consideration. Nothing in this definition shall be construed to prohibit competition between amateurs for medals or trophies of a similar nature. It is hereby expressly declared that this definition is not retroactive.

3. Nothing in this rule shall be construed to prohibit the acceptance by an amateur of his necessary travelling expenses incurred as a contestant or official in going to and from any place for an amateur contest.

4. The disposing of any medal or trophy for a consideration shall be considered evidence of professionalism.

5. No student shall be eligible to participate in intercollegiate athletics who has taken advantage of any reduction of fees, scholarships, or other financial advantage, except upon the basis of competitive examination or other basis open to non-athletic students on the same terms.

ENFORCEMENT.

1. All questions in regard to the eligibility and amateur standing or reinstatement of an athlete are to be referred to his own faculty committee on athletics, whose decision shall be final.

SECRETARY.

1. A secretary shall be elected by the conference to serve for the period of two years. He shall upon two weeks' notice call a meeting of the conference to be held between February 1st and 10th, 1910, at such time or place as he shall designate, or at any other time, upon the written request of three of the institutions of the conference.

2. In the event of the failure of the secretary to issue any such proper call, the chairman of the athletic committee of the institution which he represents, shall issue the call.

MEMBERSHIP.

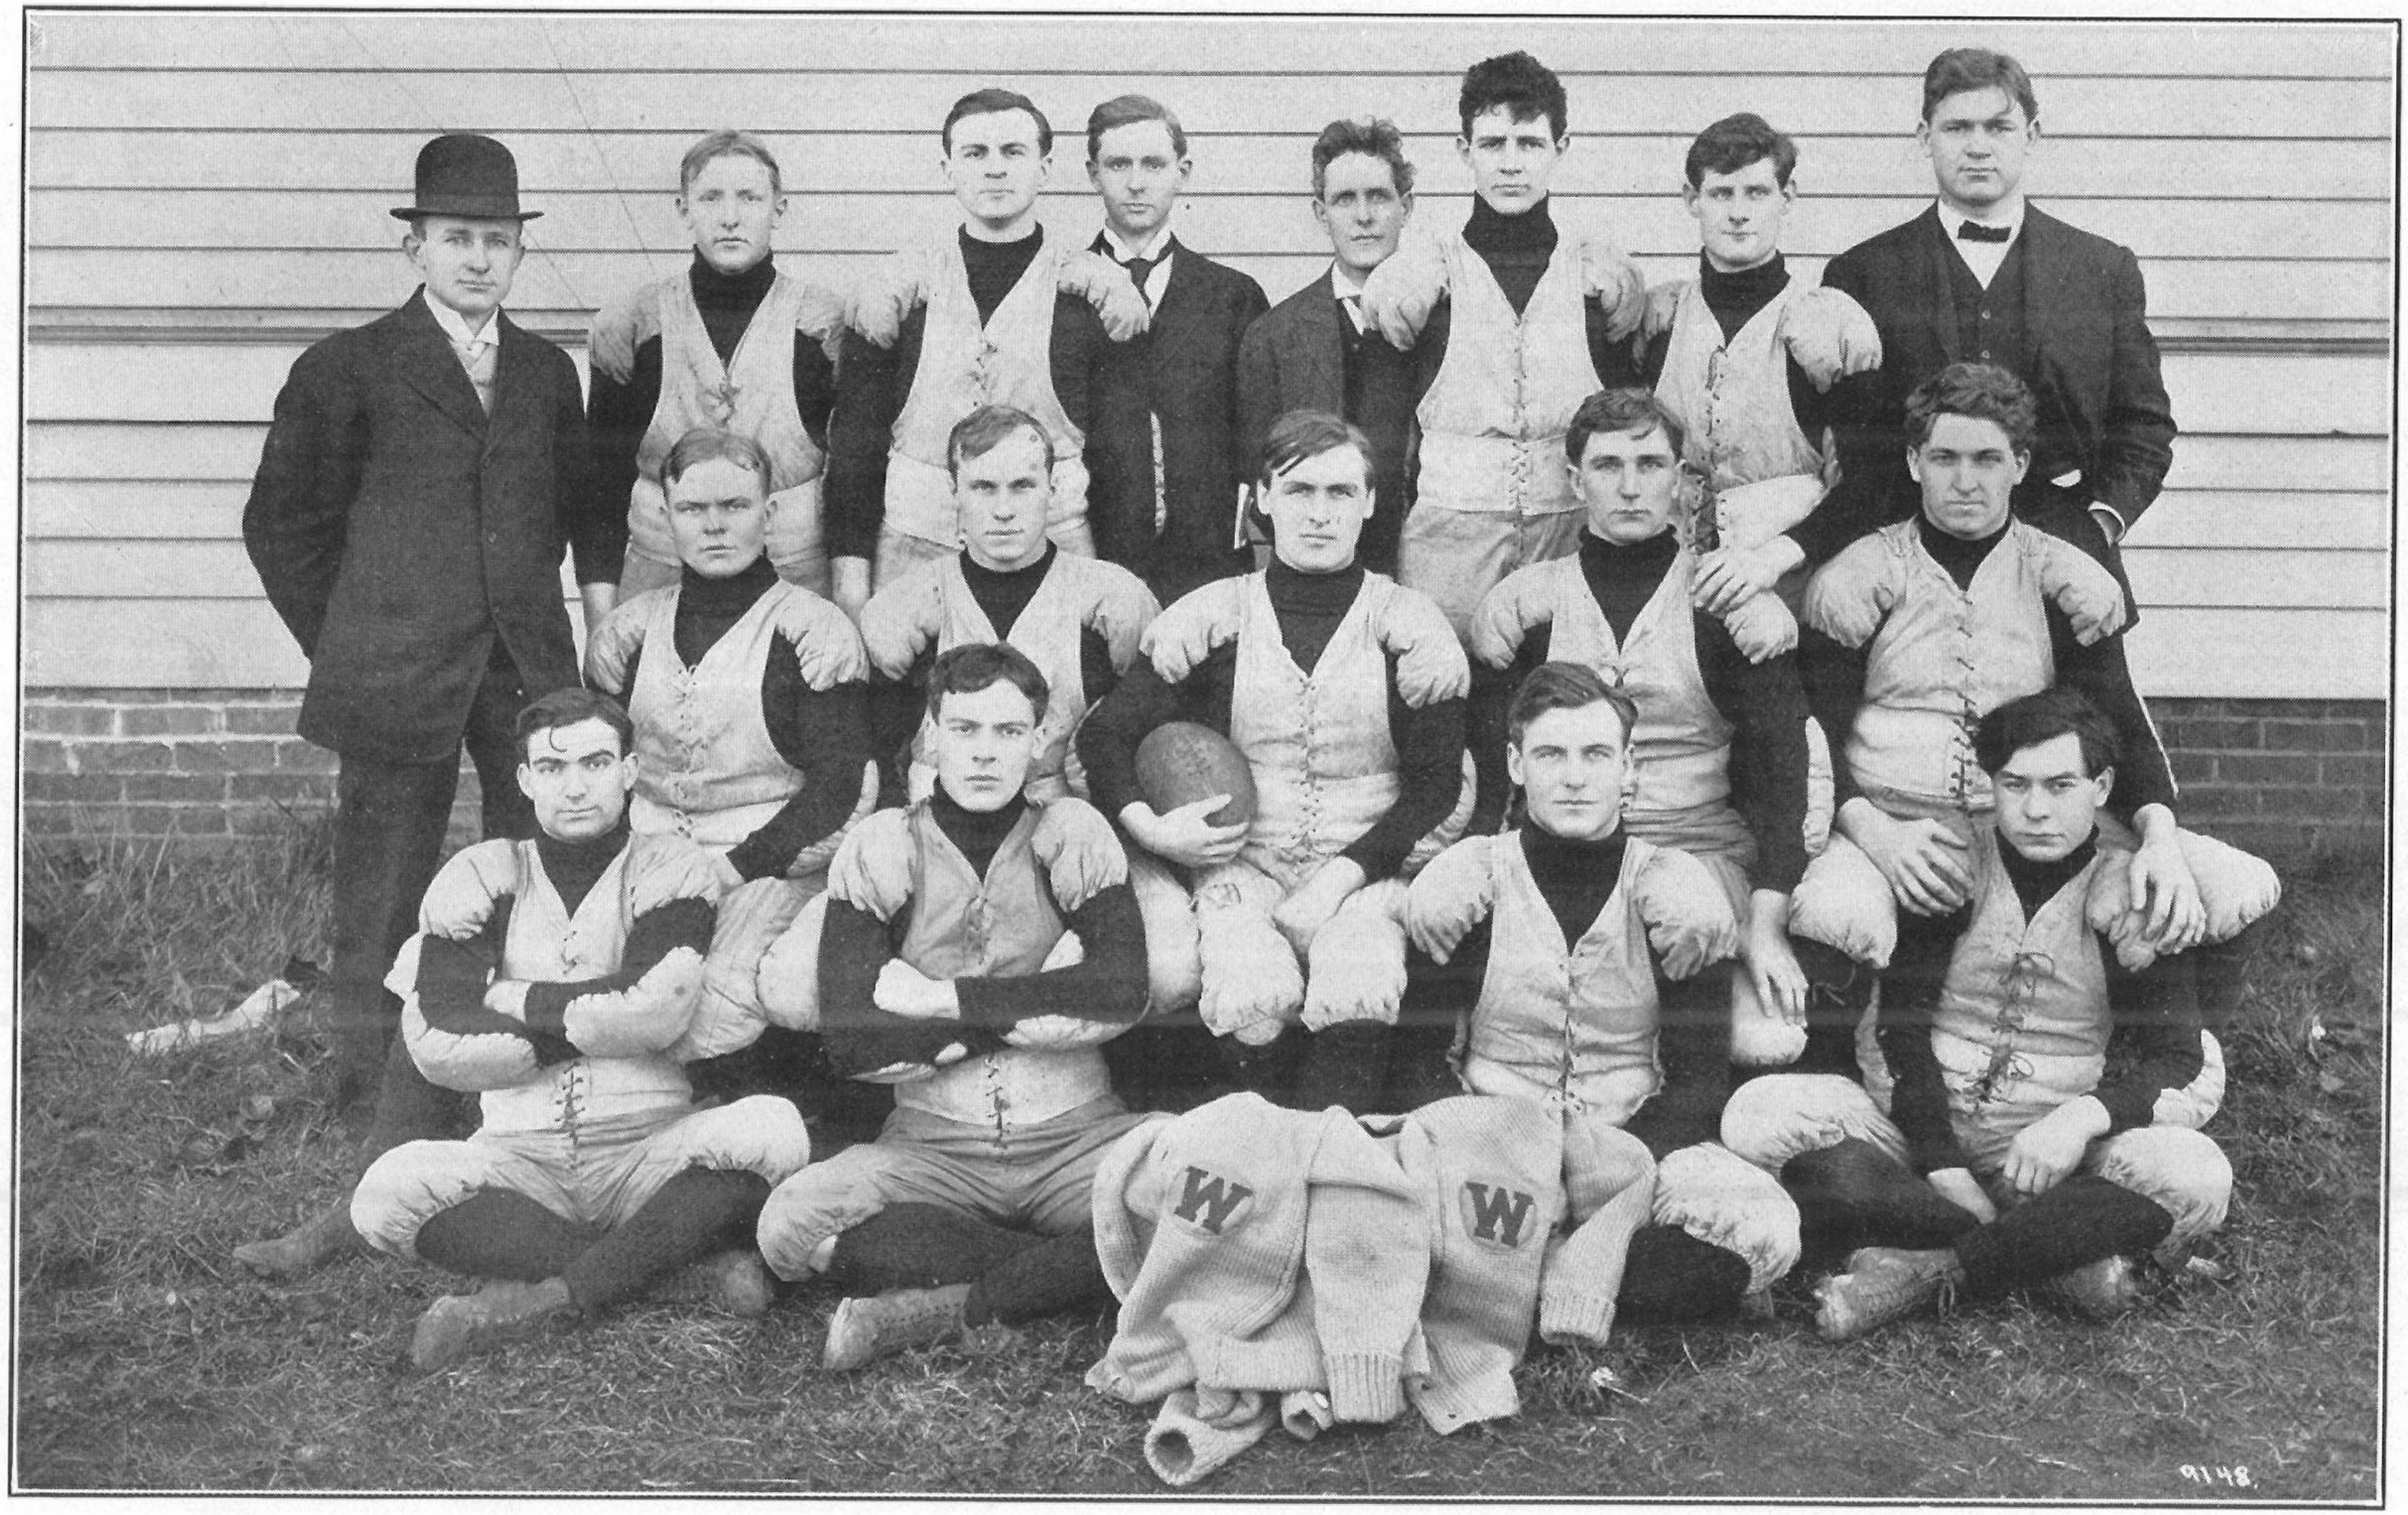

1. Any institution may become a member of this conference by making application to the secretary and subscribing to the articles of agreement upon the unanimous consent in writing of the members of the conference.

AMENDMENTS.

1. A change in the articles of agreement of this conference may be declared adopted by the secretary upon the filing of written approval by each institution in the conference.

DATE OF TAKING EFFECT.

THE "KICK-OFF"
WASHINGTON'S FORMATION "A"

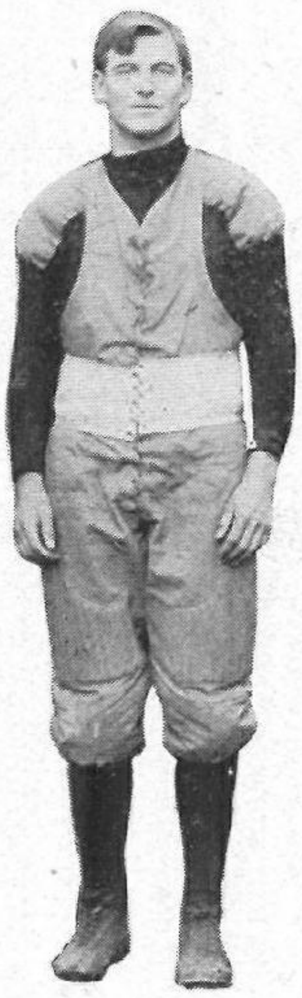

FOOTBALL interest at the University of Washington was never more alive than in the season of 1907. The increased attendance at the games, as well as the large number of candidates for the team, proved this beyond a doubt. Not only was the A. S. U. W. able to clear away the big debt incurred during the rowing season, but the association was able to finish the season with a substantial margin of money ahead.

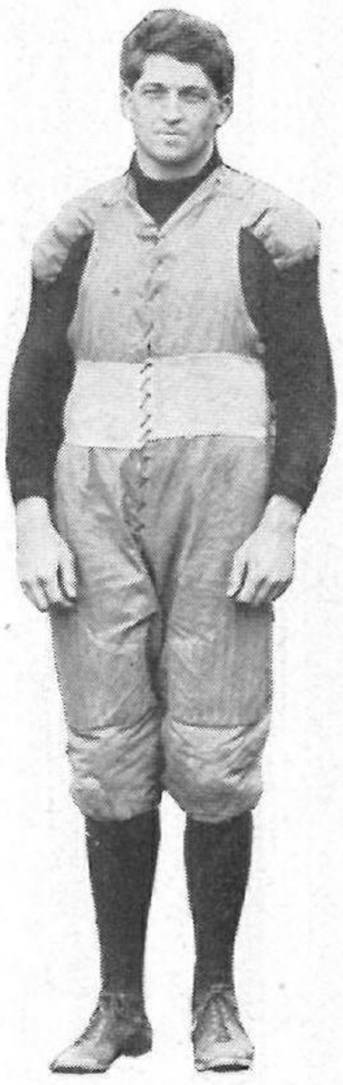

When football practice began late in September, Coach Place had a squad of over fifty men, or enough for five teams. With excellent spirit in the student body, high hopes for a most successful season were entertained. Nor were these hopes unrealized. Although the eleven met with a number of reverses during the season, the closeness of the scores gave to her rivals small cause for rejoicing and none for taunting.

Much interest was taken by all of the supporters of the great American college game in following the style of play used by the Northwest teams during the season. The results of 1906 under the new rules gave small clue as to the course the game would eventually pursue. The past season was devoted to continuing the experiments of the previous year. For example, the University of Idaho adopted an open style of play and endeavored to use to the utmost the advantages offered by the forward pass and other changes in the rules. On the other hand, the University of Oregon and Washington State College avoided experimenting, as far as possible, and clung to the old formations.

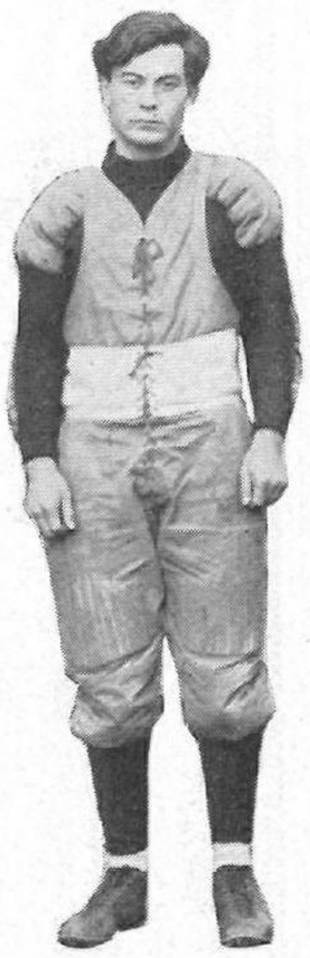

Washington's style, while not so open as that of Idaho, was along much the same lines. Shift formations were used entirely and the forward pass was a favorite play.

As had been anticipated, the continuance of the ten yard rule made scoring by touchdowns difficult and induced the teams to develop place kickers. For Washington "Polly" Grimm excelled in making goals from the field. In the game with Whitman his good right toe scored Washington's eight points. Whitman's twelve points were likewise all made by field goals. Grimm was also the man who officiated at the throwing end of most of Washington's successful forward passes.

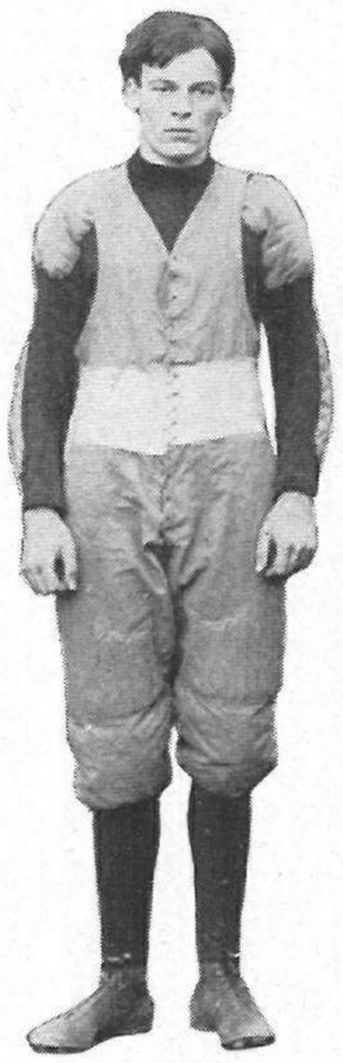

Washington was unfortunate during the season in the loss of players through injuries, many of which were received in practice. As a natural result of this misfortune, the team had to be changed and shifted, often injuriously to the work of the team. Roger Bragdon, right end, threw his knee out of joint in the Whitman game, at the first of the big inter-collegiate contests. For some time following this accident Tegtmeier was shifted from center to end, Beck taking center. Mattson was later put in at end and Tegtmeier was returned to his position for the Idaho game. Captain Bagshaw was out of the game on account of injuries much of the season.

Washington's chances for the championship were injured by the scheduling of too many games, which kept the eleven out of condition most of the time. The University played ten games, while her rivals played each five or six.

Four games were played by the eleven away from home. The first trip was to Oregon, where the 'Varsity played the team of the Multnomah Athletic Club at Portland on October 12, winning by a score of 10 to 0, and Willamette on October 14 at Salem, taking the latter team into camp by a score of 21 to 0. On October 19 the University defeated Whitworth college at Tacoma by a score of 5 to 0. Whitman was played at Walla Walla on November 8. The University lost in a close contest by a score of 12 to 8, all of which on both sides were made by goals from the field.

The University of Oregon won from Washington by a score of 6 to 0 in one of the most bitterly fought games ever seen in Seattle, on November 16. The scoring of the webfoot team was done in the latter part of the last half after a run by their fullback, Clark, who succeeded in putting the ball within striking distance of Washington's goal. The chief interest of the season centered about the game with Washington State College on November 21. The Pullman team won by a score of 11 to 6. After Washington had succeeded in tieing the first touchdown made by the State College eleven, the line weakened in the last few minutes of play, enabling Pullman's heavy backs to carry the ball over for a touchdown.

After this series of reverses the Washington supporters rallied and awaited the Idaho game hopefully. A big parade was held in the streets of Seattle to arouse enthusiasm. The team was determined not to lose again. And they did not. Although Idaho had swept everything else in the State of Washington before her, she met a team she could not beat in the University. The game ended in a score of 0 to 0. After the game Coach Middleton of Idaho said that he was satisfied with the score and that he would much rather see it as it was than 4 to 0 in favor of Washington, recognizing the advantage of Washington eleven, which carried the ball time after time to Idaho's goal in the last half, only to be held. The muddy field prevented the making of a place kick, or the University would surely have won.

Prospects for the 1908 season are rosy indeed. Only two men will be lost by graduation, Enoch Bagshaw and Fred Wills. In these two men the University loses two of its hardest fighters. As far as is known all of the rest of the team will be back again next fall, and these, together with the new men who will enter with the Freshman class, certainly ought to carry the pigskin to victory. The adoption of the Northwest Conference agreement is another circumstance that gives promise of making the next football season a more satisfactory one than the last season. Its provisions will certainly eliminate whatever unpleasantness that arose in former athletic relations.

THE SQUAD

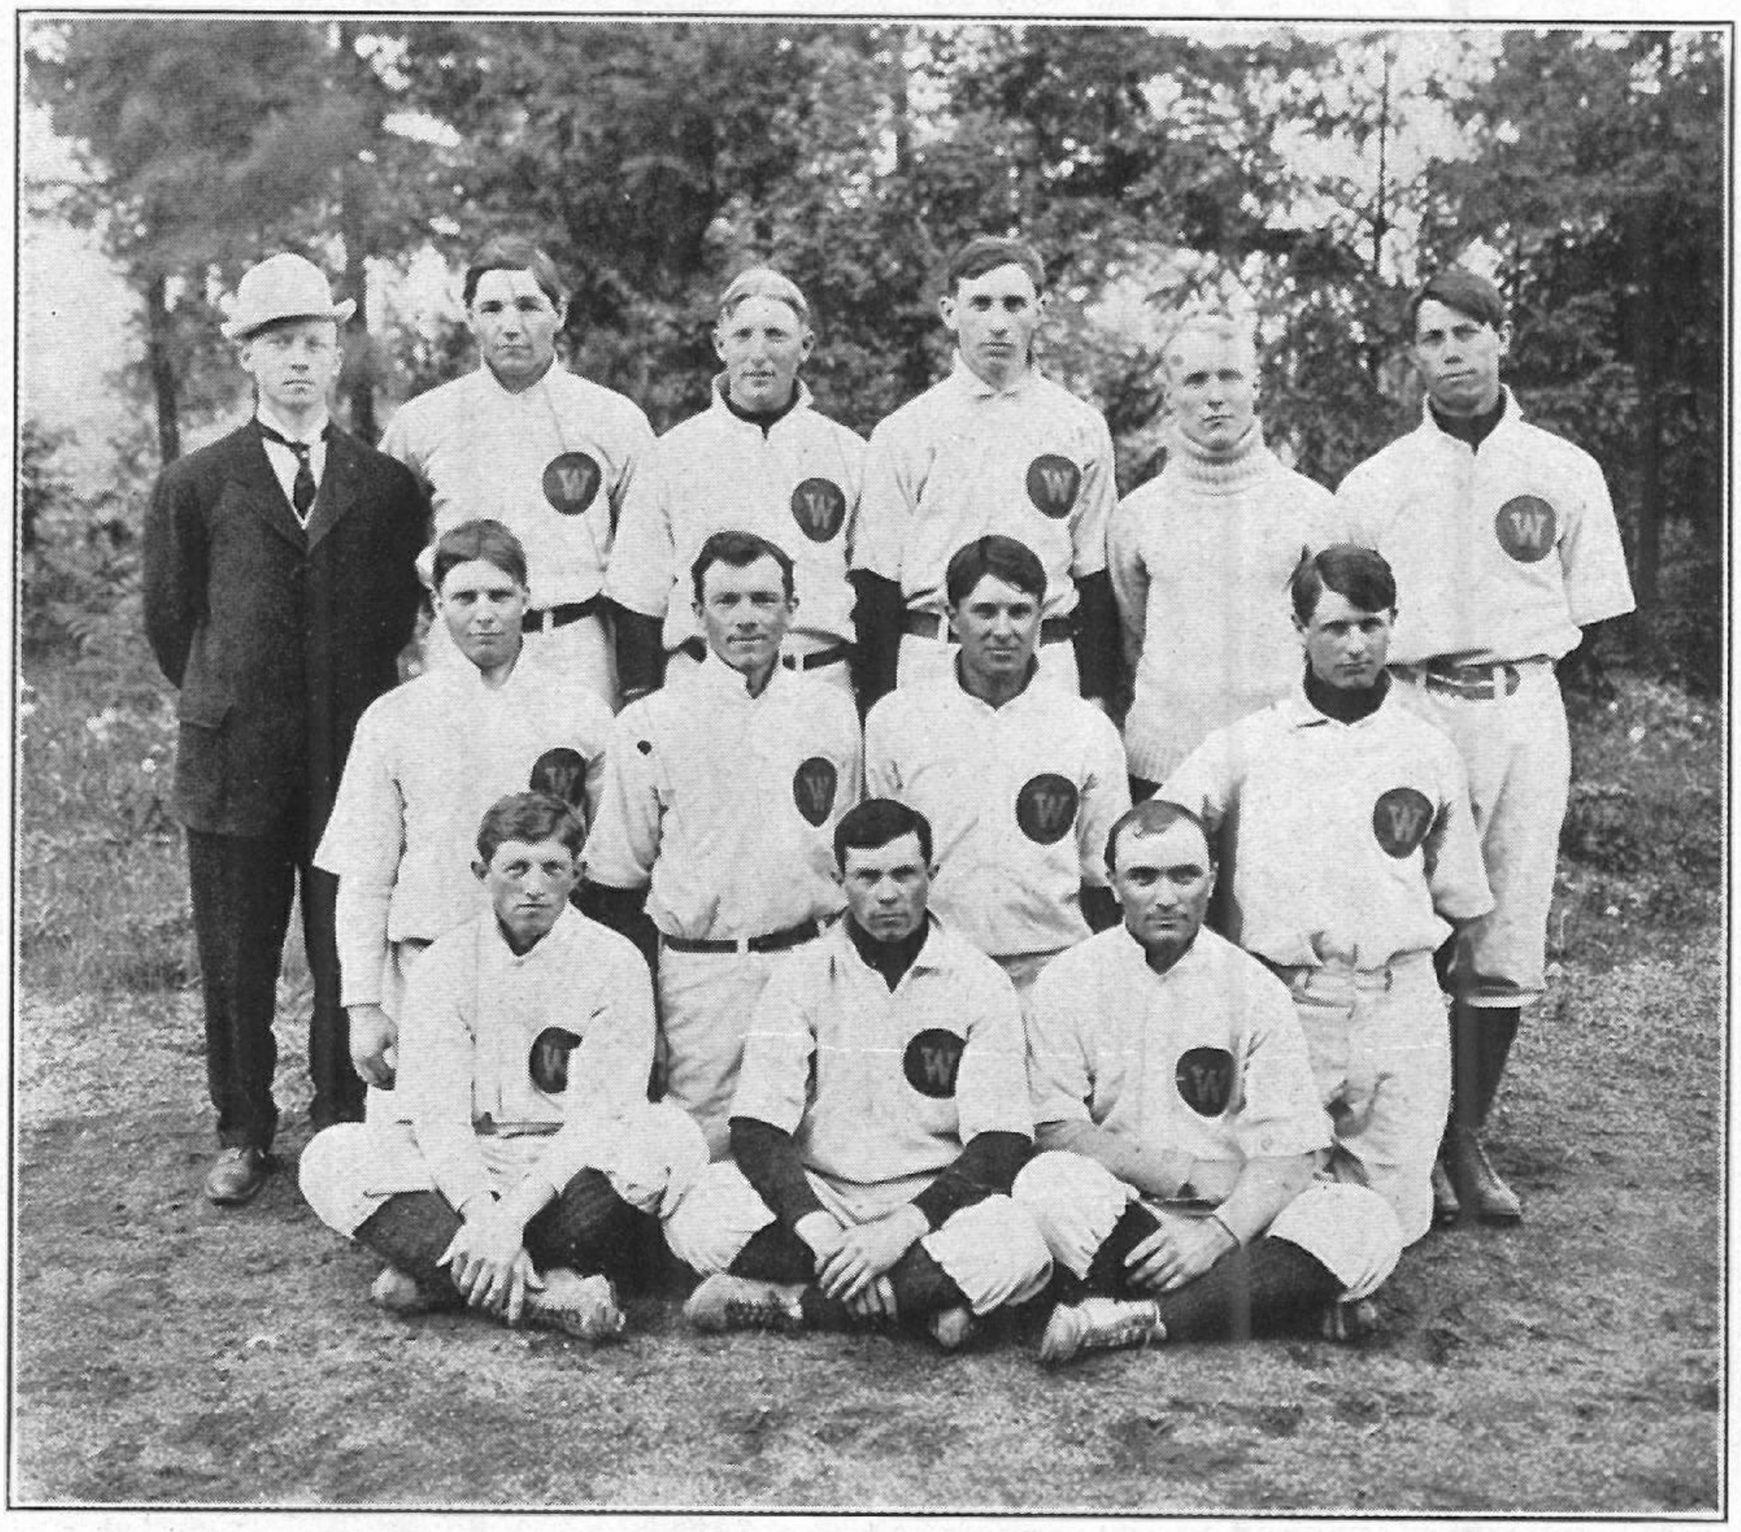

Too much cannot be said in praise of the men who, unable to make the 'Varsity team, turn out day after day to assist in its development.

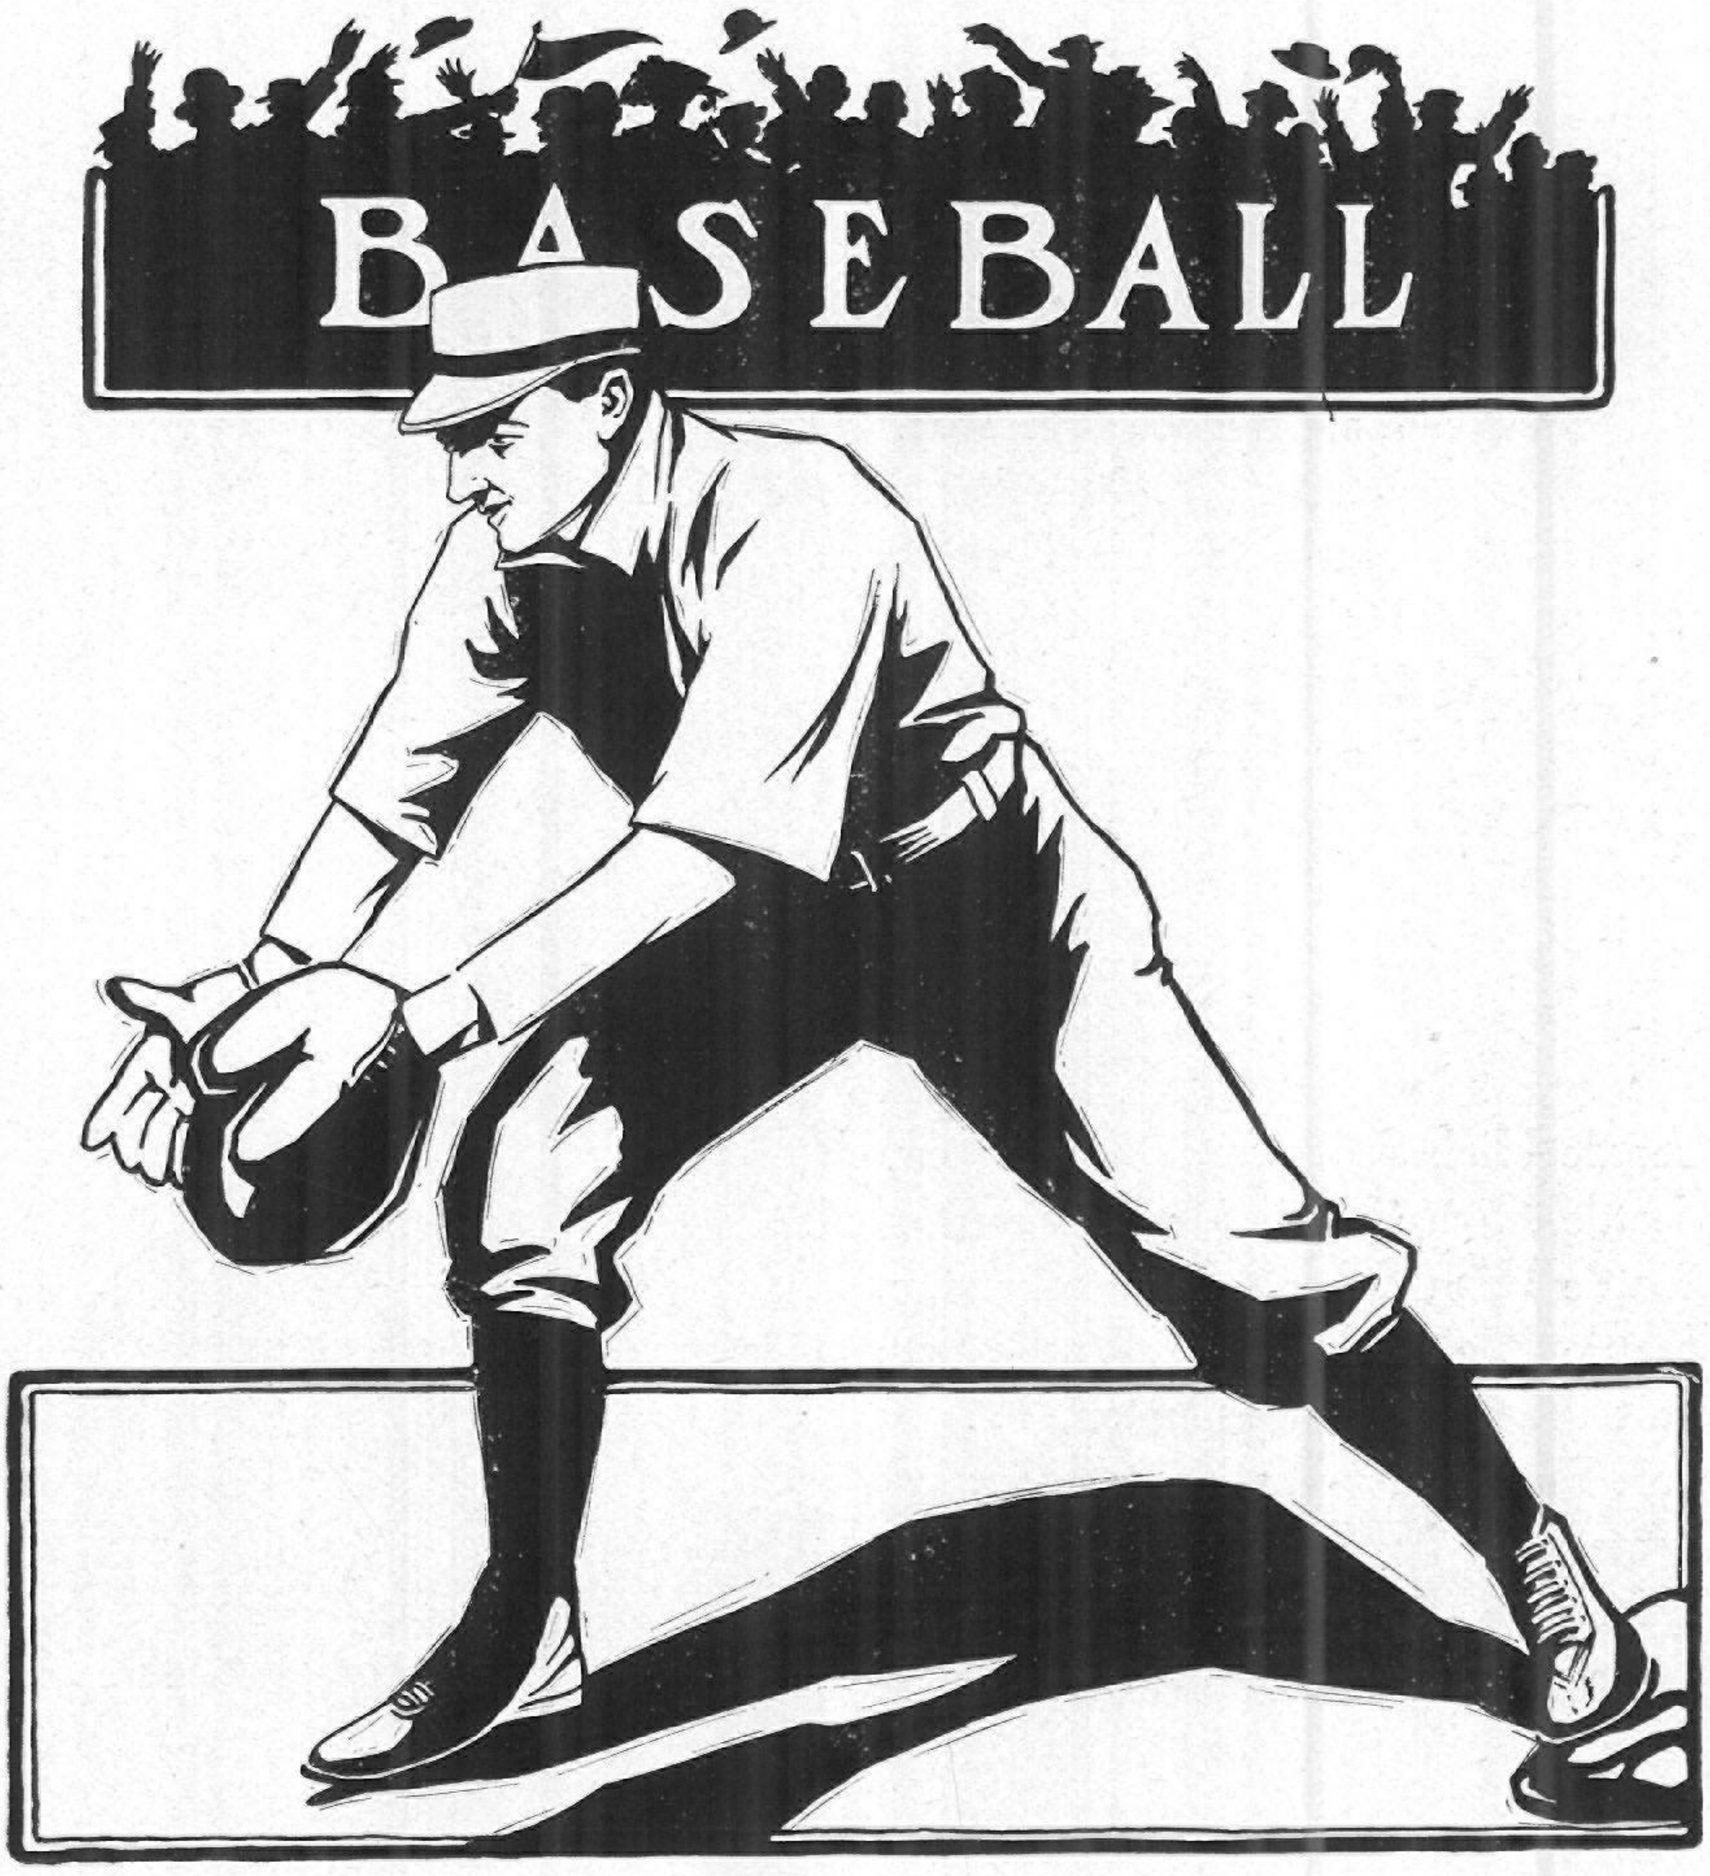

There are many lessons to be learned in football, and the second team men learn them as well as the 'Varsity, and oftentimes better. Were I to employ a college man in business, I would rather have a man who had worked faithfully four years to make a 'Varsity football team and failed, than one who made the team from the first, and who had outplayed all his opponents; the first has shown that he has the perseverance in the face of adversity, the latter has not been put to the test. The 'Varsity man who has made the team from the first may have just as much persistence as the other, but there is always the possibility of his failing when he meets a man who can give him more than he can handle. The second team man who has persisted in turning out for four years has constantly met men who were his superiors, has constantly taken knocks; still he sticks through it all, and we are sure that when he gets out into the world he will have the same persistence. Success is only a relative term, for we do not all have the same ability at the start. He who persists, who constantly tries, who always faces the opposition without a trace of impatience or dishonesty, is sure of success, and I would as soon have a faithful second team man in a place of trust as I would a faithful 'Varsity man.

I want to personally thank all those who were on the second team during the past season, and who worked faithfully throughout. They have my sincerest esteem.

The Base Ball Season

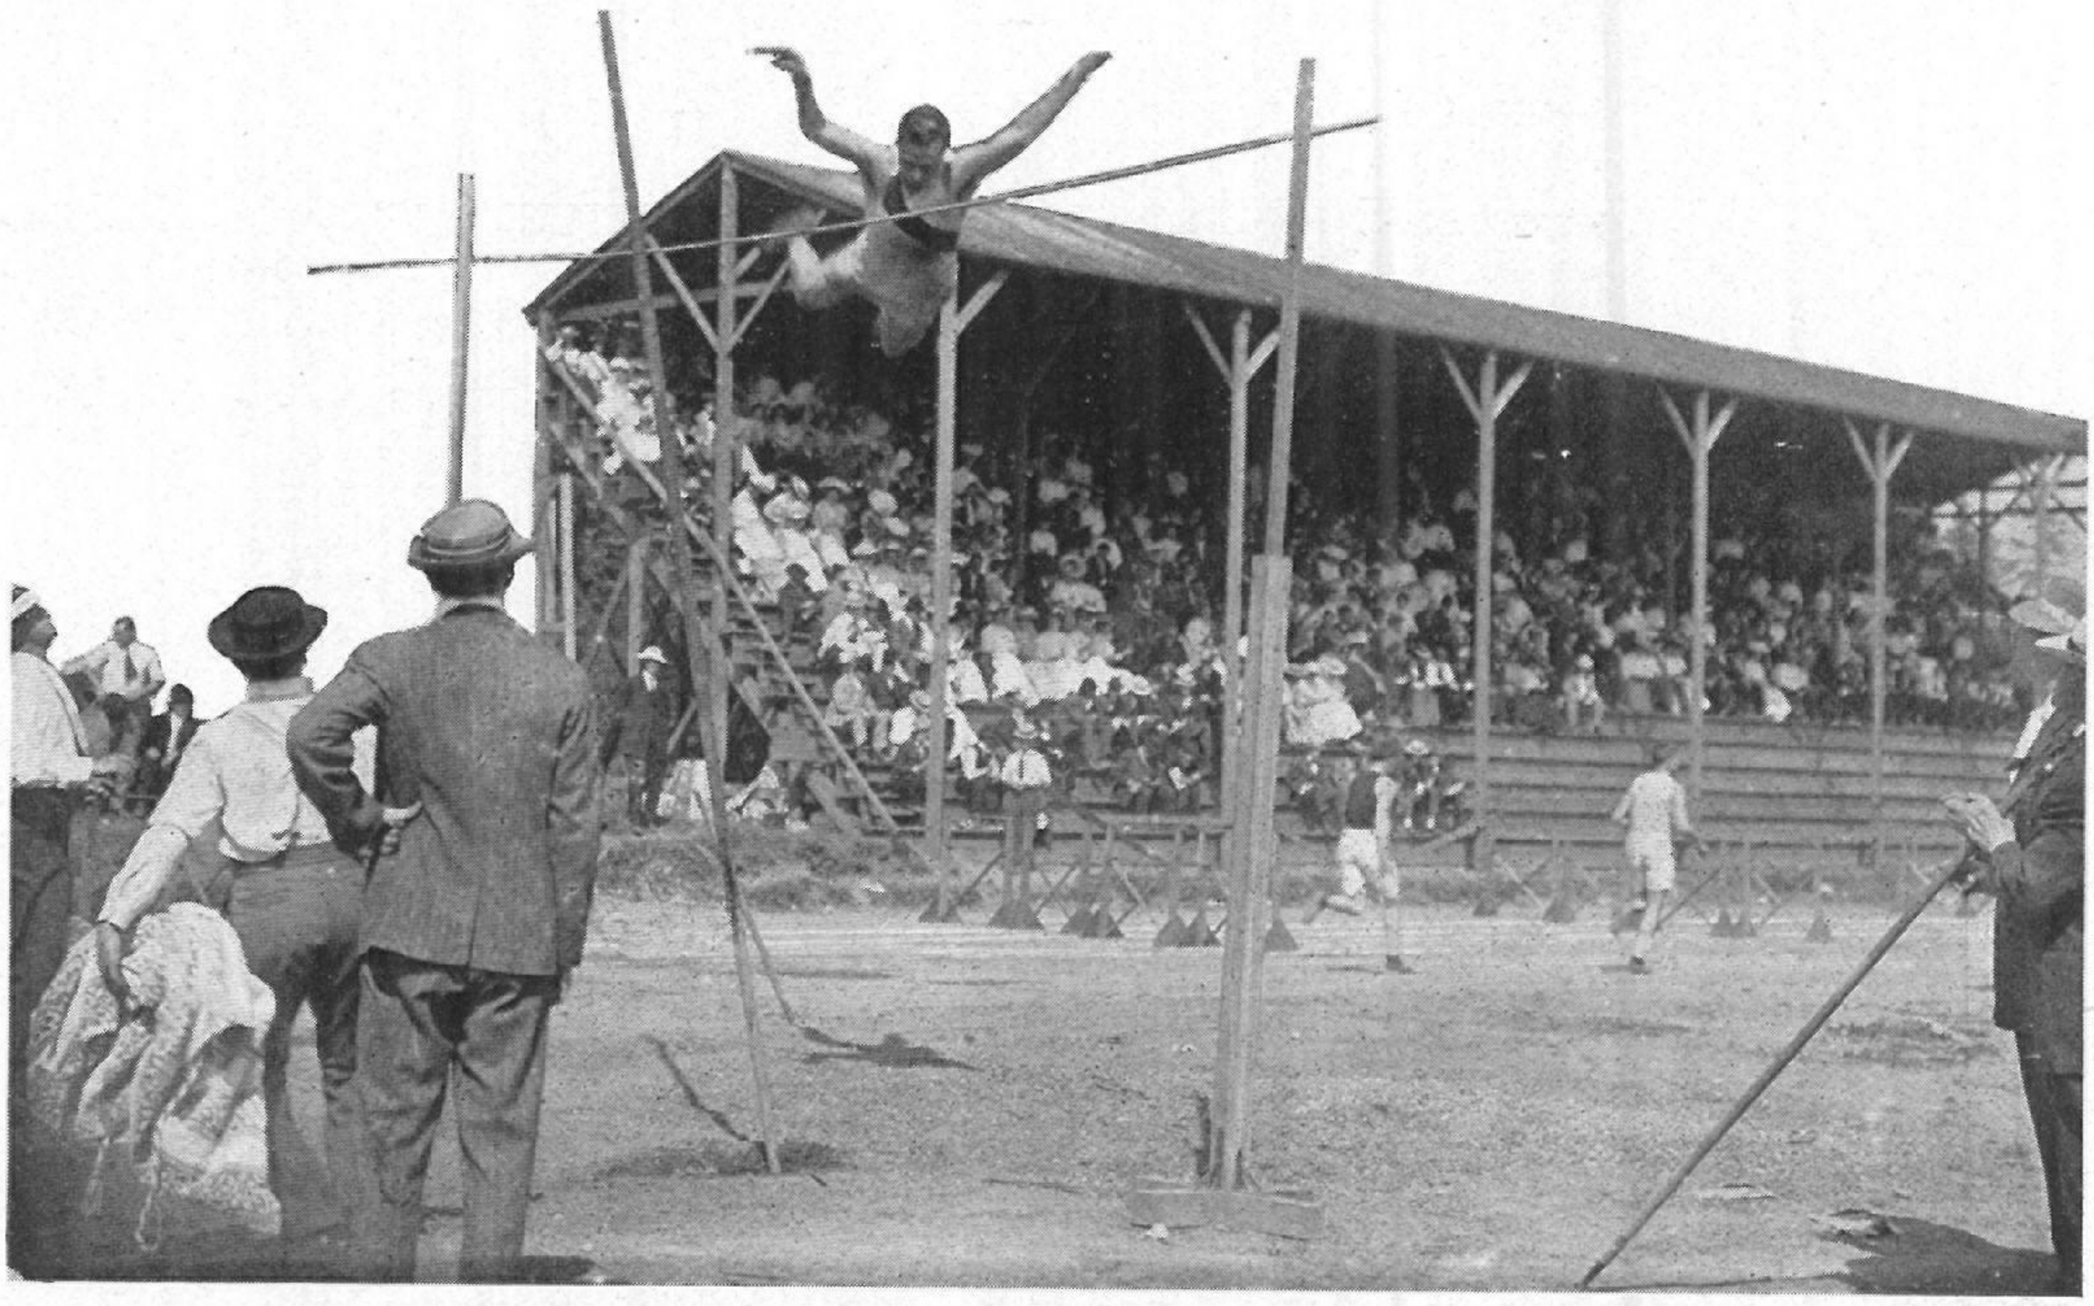

As an inter-collegiate sport baseball has not in recent years attracted the attention of the student body as have the other activities. Coming, as it does, at a time when the attention of the University is divided between the spring athletics, baseball, track and rowing, it has not assumed a prominent place. Washington met but one other college in baseball last year, and that was Whitman, at Walla Walla. That institution won the first two games of the series and lost the third.

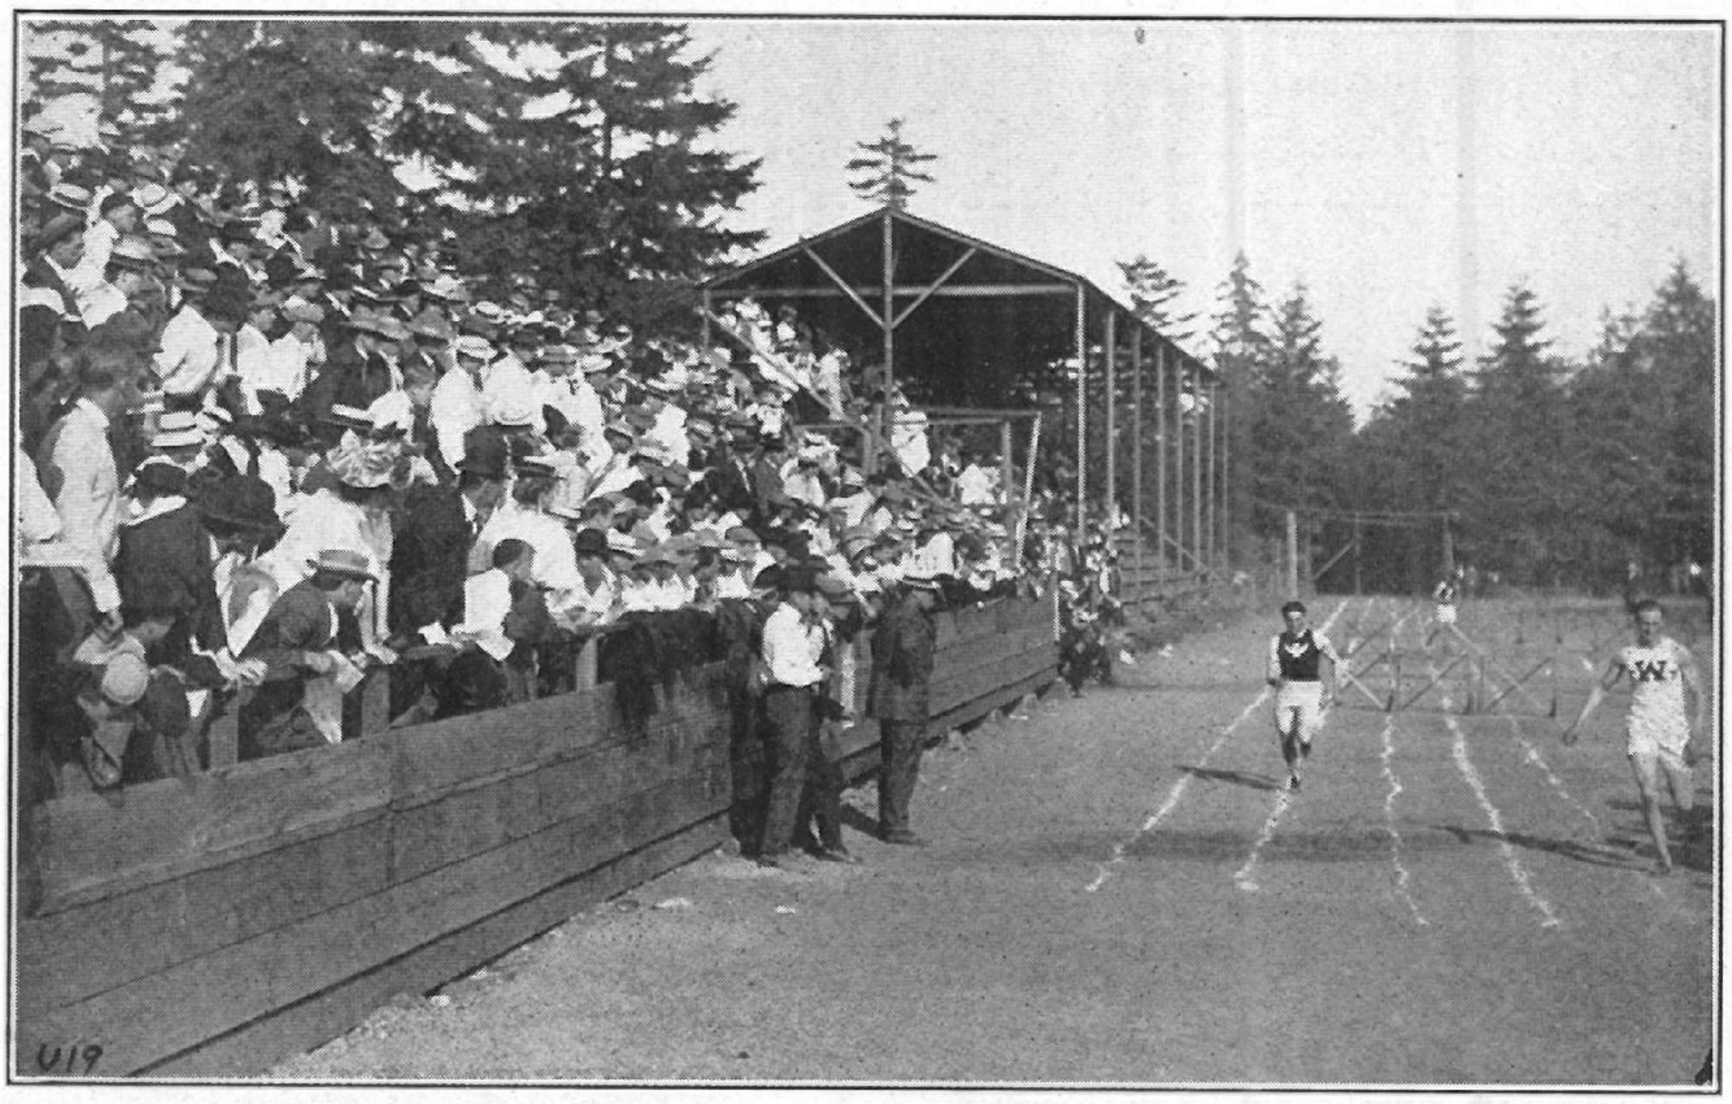

In all, fourteen games were played by the Washington nine. Out of these, nine were victories and but five, defeats. Three games were won from the Seattle High School, two from Fort Flagler, three from the Waterville town team, and one from Whitman college.

The season was begun by the University in a most encouraging fashion. Early practice brought out a large number of experienced players, many of whom were players of previous years at the University. The new men who made the nine in the season of 1907 are McKechnie, pitcher; Gillette, pitcher; Meagher, second base; Roy Brown, catcher, and Earl Brown, first base.

Three trips were taken by the team. The first was to Fort Flagler, where the University defeated the soldiers by a score of 19 to 1. Following this, the team played a series of five games with Waterville at that town. This series was won by the University by three to two games. The concluding trip of the season was to Walla Walla, where the team met Whitman.

Although baseball has been handicapped in the past by the difficulty, for financial reasons, of securing games with other colleges, the time must soon come when this game will be able to hold its own with any of the other activities as the institutions of the Northwest grow in resources. The adoption of the Northwest conference rules should do more than anything else to help interest in baseball at Washington. It is probable that in the near future a yearly trip to eastern Washington will be a settled thing. With athletic relations as they are now between the colleges of the Northwest, there is no reason why games cannot be played between the University nine and the teams of Whitman, Washington State College and Idaho.

KARL HALL FINISHING THE RELAY

ROWING.
ASKIN

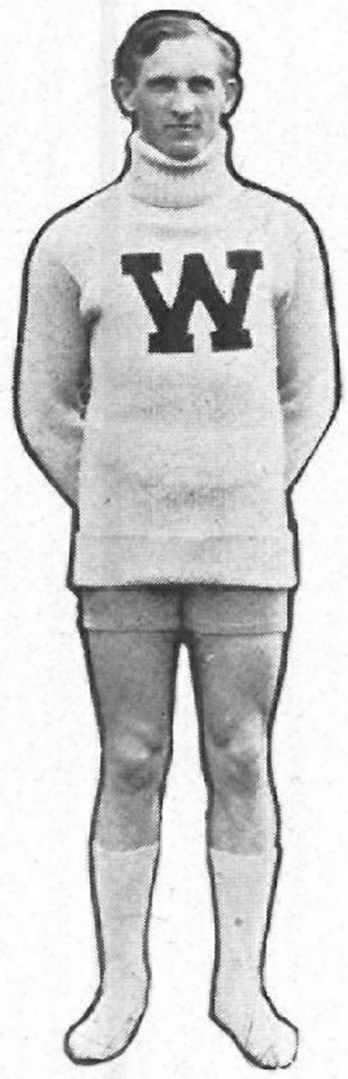

Gloster, Captain

April 5, 1907.

"Hooray! the shells are here—down on the siding at Brooklyn! Come on fellows!"

How quickly did the Washington fellows gather to get a first peep at the new racers. And how gingerly and with what gladness did they pick up the fragile shells,—one the Henley record holder,—from their cratings and carry them to the old shell house. When they gently shoved the boats into the waters of Lake Washington an epoch of success in rowing was floated for the U. of W. With cheers that echoed and reechoed and blended and echoed again Washington took her place in the college navy of the West.

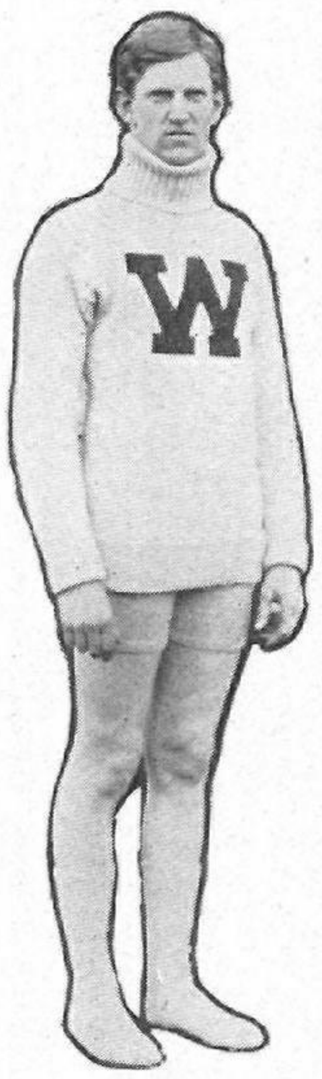

Kirby, Capt.-elect

Conibear, Coach

April 20, 1907.

"Ready, all Stroke!" and the Henley record holder started from the boat house for Madison Park, for the bay, and for San Francisco. In it was Washington's first "eight," Captain Dick Gloster, stroke; Dobs O'Brien, seven; Bill Kirby, six; Paul Jarvis, five; Hart Willis, four; Bartlett Lovejoy, three; George Sadler, two; Doak Lowry, bow; and Walter Dunbar, coxswain. Willingly was the shell carried the long way from the park to the S. S. "City of Puebla," and glorious was the demonstration at the wharf when the Puebla cast off.

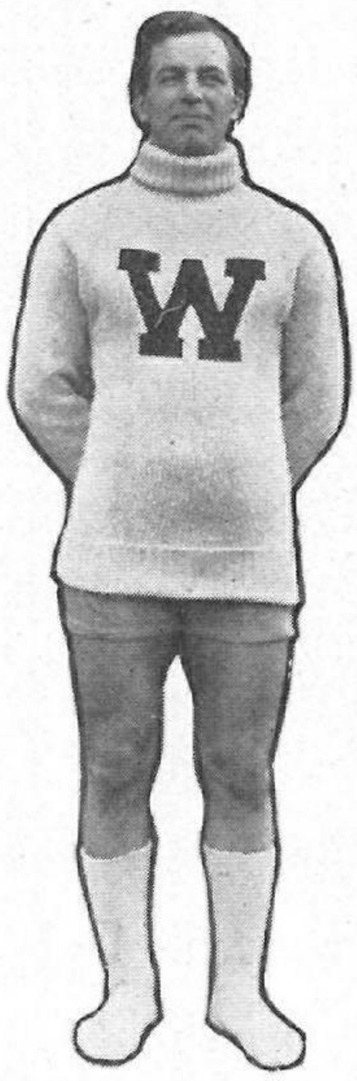

O'Brien

Saturday, April 27, 1907.

At eleven a T-bone steak. At two o'clock Washington squared off from the Frisco Yacht Club boat house and headed for the start. The Stanford crew followed in fifteen minutes and the California eight finally started thirty minutes later. Not rowing along the lee shore where the water was quiet, California swamped and delayed the race an hour longer while she righted herself.

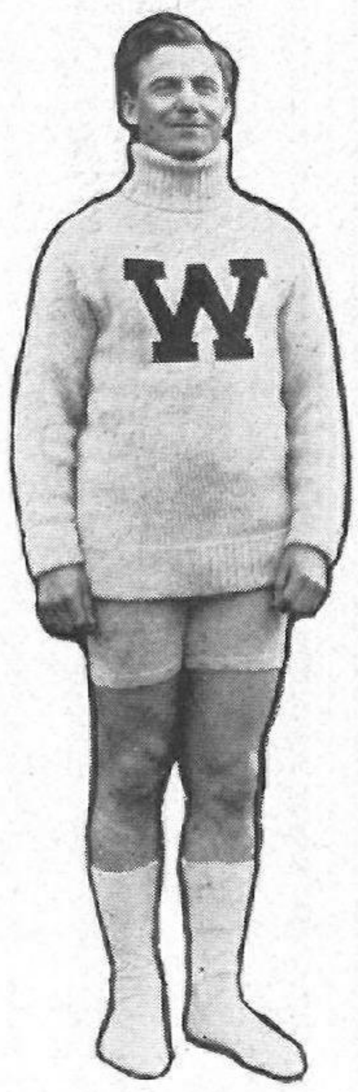

The start was bad, the cannon booming while Washington was backing and while Stanford was in the act of squaring around. California got off ahead but Washington and Stanford soon passed and eventually left her lengths behind. Thus they raced; Washington and Stanford fighting in a choppy sea for first place and the line.

With her boat nearly full of water Washington was distressed for an instant and Stanford gained a half length. Swinging together again however, Washington soon regained the distance and began forging ahead. A shout and the California shell swamped. Still straining, Washington and Stanford pulled on. Another instant and Stanford quit rowing with her shell settling below the water. A short second more and Washington met the same fate although she did not stop rowing until she was several lengths ahead and within a short half mile of the finish.

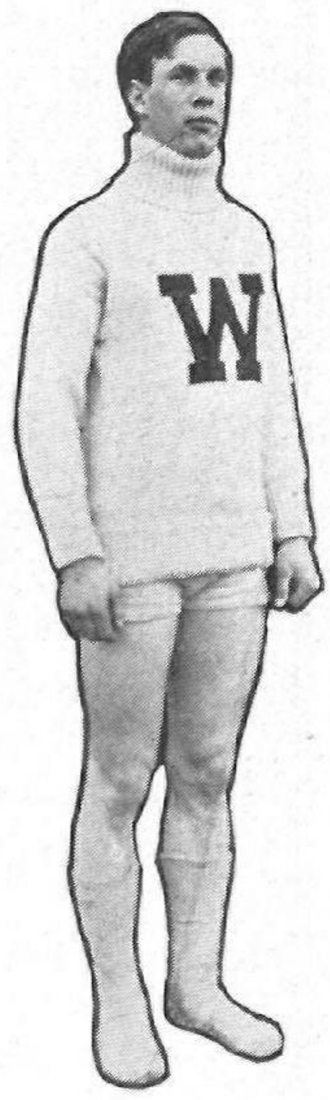

Jarvis

The Washington crew was taken on board the Puebla in midstream; their shell was slung to the upper deck; and the trip back to the university was begun. Although victory was not won, yet the Washington boys felt that success would eventually be theirs. Stanford, on the Monday following, easily defeated the University of California over the same course and earned a trip north to row for the championship against Washington.

Willis

Lovejoy

Saturday, June 1, 1907.

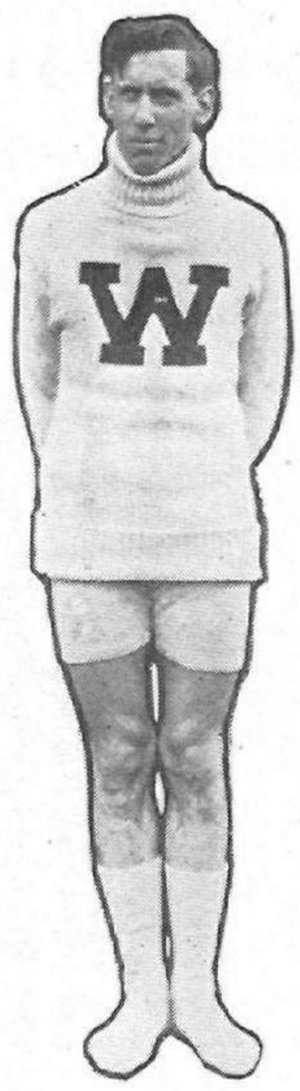

The day of the Great Race, Nature was kind and the lake was slightly rippled by a faint breeze from the west which gently fanned the colors and pennants displayed by thousands of people who waited for the boom of the cannon and the race. Along the shore of Lake Washington from the start to the finish, and at every vantage point back on the hills, were crowds of people drawn from business, professional, and school life, to see this first great race for championship honors on the Pacific. Lake steamers, beautifully decorated and crowded to the rails with those lucky enough to secure passage were at the start to follow the oarsmen in their struggle. From Laurelhurst Point to the finish, the hill was one mass of blazing color and streaming pennants, while beneath, afloat, were hundreds of canoes and other small craft loaded with friends and supporters of both Stanford and Washington.

Both crews felt fine; each looked for victory. A few minutes after twelve the waiting throng heard a boom and the race was on. Sixteen oars caught the water at the same instant but Washington with her short quick stroke at the start secured a lead of nearly a length which Stanford was powerless to overcome. After the start both crews settled down to a steady stroke Washington pulling a thirty-four and Stanford a thirty-eight. Stanford attempted several times to shorten the gradually widening gap which showed between the two boats but her spurts availed her nothing and Washington continually increased her lead. At the finish both eights gave a grand exhibition but Washington was master and amid shrieks of whistles and yells and cheers in one mad wild burst of enthusiasm "Sec." McLean threw up his hand across the line ahead, and Washington was Champion of the Pacific.

Lowry

At assembly last winter a speaker remarked, "Washington will never become the Cornell of the Pacific—Cornell will be the Washington of the Atlantic. The advantages are yours, Washington; your navy will be gradually increased; your crews will ever become greater; and as your traditions of rowing become fixed let them be built upon this championship of the Pacific which you now hold. And in the not distant future may your navy carry the broom of the American Championship at its masthead."

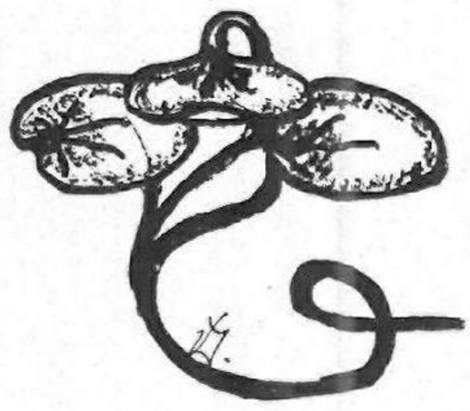

Dunbar

The rowing prospects seem ever bright. Of the old crew all but Capt. Gloster and Geo. Sadler are out for daily practice. Homer Kirby is captain and with only two vacant seats behind him to be filled, and with Conibear as coach, he should have no difficulty in stroking his crew to victory. Karr, O'Neal, Damus and Alton Cooper, from the strong second crew, are also in training and Washington will find them all invaluable and competent to uphold her honor.

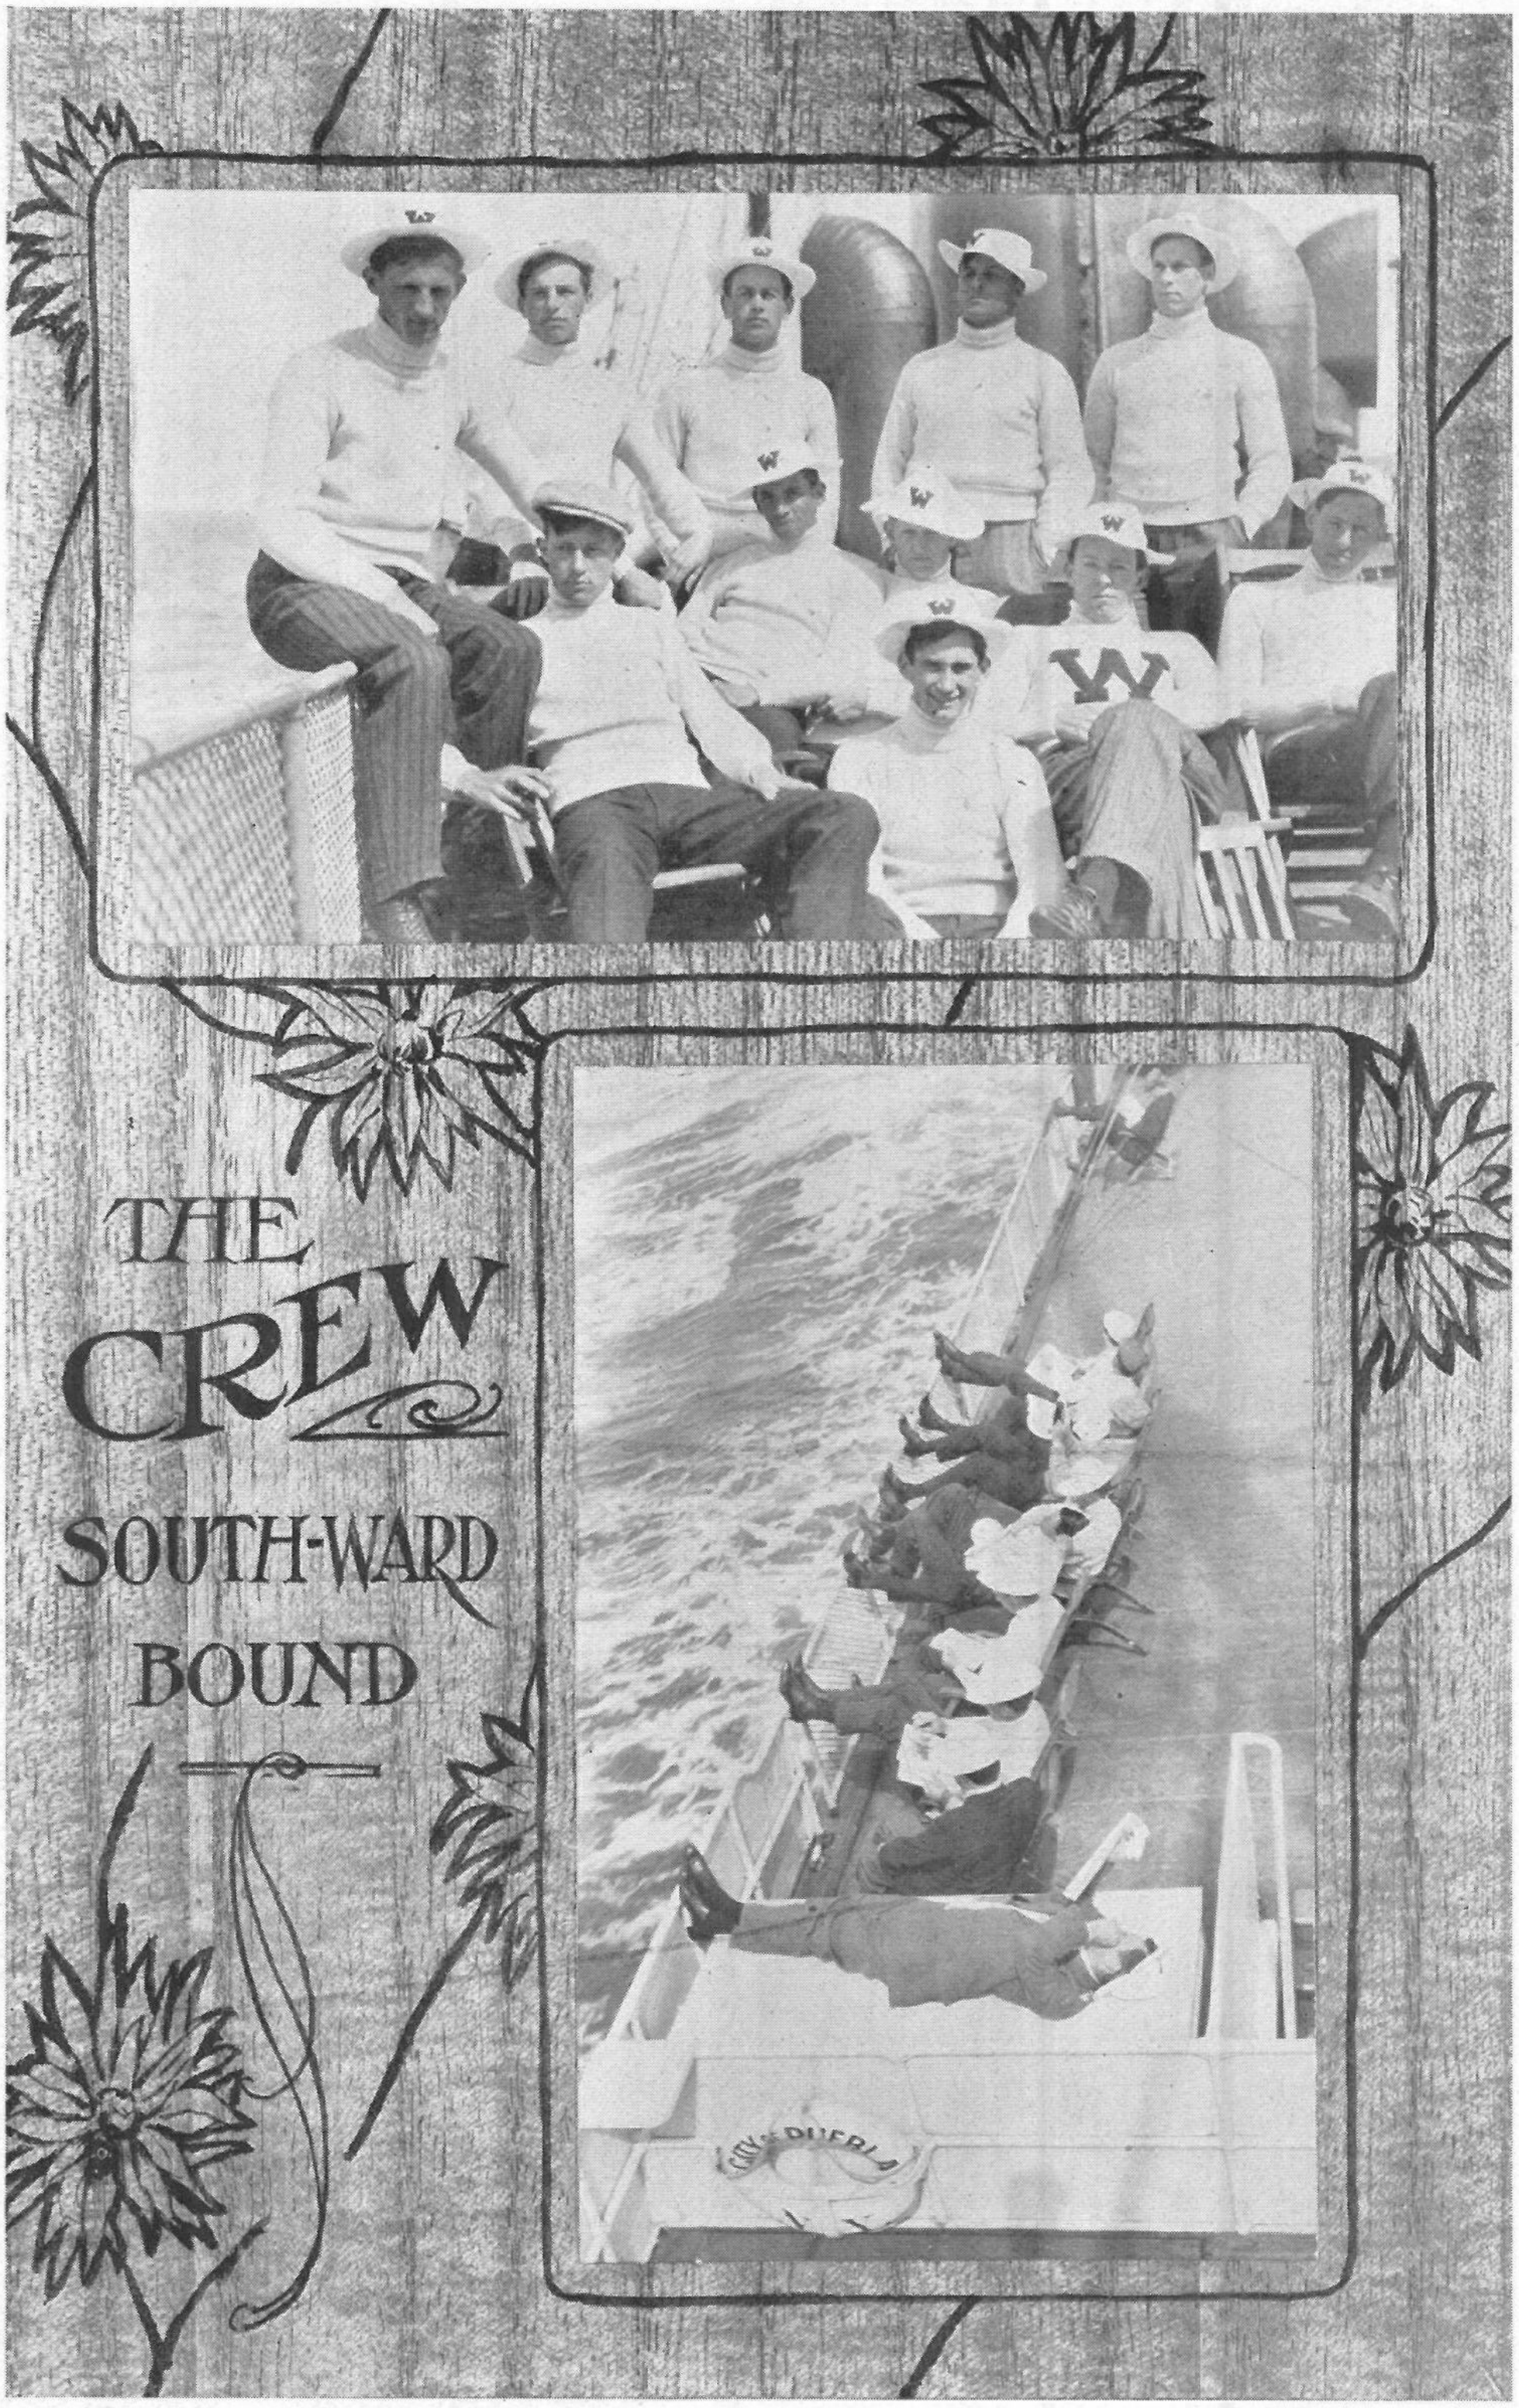

Efforts are being made to bring about a triangular race at San Francisco, with a return race on Lake Washington, and a strong possibility is present that Wisconsin will afford us a chance to compete against them. An intercollegiate race for the Freshmen may be held on Lake Washington, and with the first year men rowing in better form now than the 'Varsity did at this time last year, things look rosy for Washington. Besides her two 'Varsity and two Freshmen eights, Washington has four Co-ed crews that row together every day, good weather or bad. The women train very faithfully and on Junior Day they will have a chance to compete in class races.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

E. T. BELL GLEN HOOVER

ROY CRISMAS

The purpose of the Philosophical Club is to conduct a systematic investigation of broad philosophical subjects. Any man in the faculty or student body is eligible to membership who proves himself able and willing to do the work required.

LEO TITUS - - - - - - - - - President
WELLINGTON MOXLEY - - - - - - - Secretary

This club was organized in the fall of 1907. Its objects are largely social. It meets once a month.

Membership in the club is limited to those students who live or have lived in the State of Montana.

Chelan County Club

FRED SUTTON - - - - - - - - President
MARGARET C. MURRAY - - - - - Vice President
WALTER THOMAS - - - - - - - Secretary

The Chelan County Club of the University of Washington was organized in the fall of 1907. Its membership now numbers twenty-six students. The main objects of the club are to maintain an acquaintance among the Chelan County students in the University and to promote the interests of the University throughout the county. The club meets regularly once a week.

Aside from the social features of the club the organization has been instrumental in establishing a scholarship of $200 in the University of Washington, to be given to the most deserving student in the graduating class of the Wenatchee High School, based upon class standing and participation in student activities. This scholarship is to be known as "The Big Red Apple Scholarship."

INTERNATIONAL CLUB

PHILIP ALBAN - - - - - - - - President
GORN DATTA KUME - - - - - - - Vice President
HAROLD GODDARD - - - - - - - Secretary
LEW KAY - - - - - - - - - - Treasurer

The International Club was organized in March, 1908, for the purpose of bringing into closer touch the students of various nationalities, that thus might be removed the many erroneous ideas they hold of one another. It has another and nobler aim, too, that of taking part in what is now becoming a world-wide movement among colleges for the furthering of peace. All foreign born students in the University are eligible. Native born Americans may be admitted to the number of one-third of the foreigners.

Tacoma Club

BERT A. HANSEN - - - - - - - - President
GORDON BURKE - - - - - - - - Vice President
FAY EASTERDAY - - - - - - - - Treasurer
ELDIN V. LYNN - - - - - - - - Secretary

The Tacoma Club was organized in the fall of 1907 for the double purpose of boosting the University in Tacoma and looking after Tacoma's interests in the University. Its membership is limited to students from Tacoma and now amounts to fifty-one.

CAMPUS DAY SPIRIT AT 11 A.M.

CAMPUS DAY SPIRIT AT 1230 P.M.

CAMPUS DAY

APRIL 19, 1907

We mustered on the Ad. steps at eight o'clock; tools—all kinds, from a cross-cut saw to a pruning knife; pipes too, the faculty edict against smoking on those premises remaining in abeyance for the time being—the one day in the year, and some fellows were unsportsmanlike enough to miss it. After forcibly removing a few white collars which savored of dilletanteism, we sat patiently for the photographer. Imagine campus day without a picture.

It would tax the ingenuity of a post-grad to secrete three hundred men in the woods back of the Gym and the Ad. Building, to hide them so thoroughly that the sandwich committee could not find them. But such an outrage was accomplished by General Meany and his able assissant, Brigadier-General Roberts. It is true that Col. Condon and his squad of seventy men laboring on the oval repeatedly held up the commissary, for which they shall some day be justly punished, yet the fact remains that a regiment of toilers labored for four long weary hours without a bite to eat. There was lemonade, no doubt, good lemonade made from real lemons, but a smoke tastes no better after a drink than it did before.

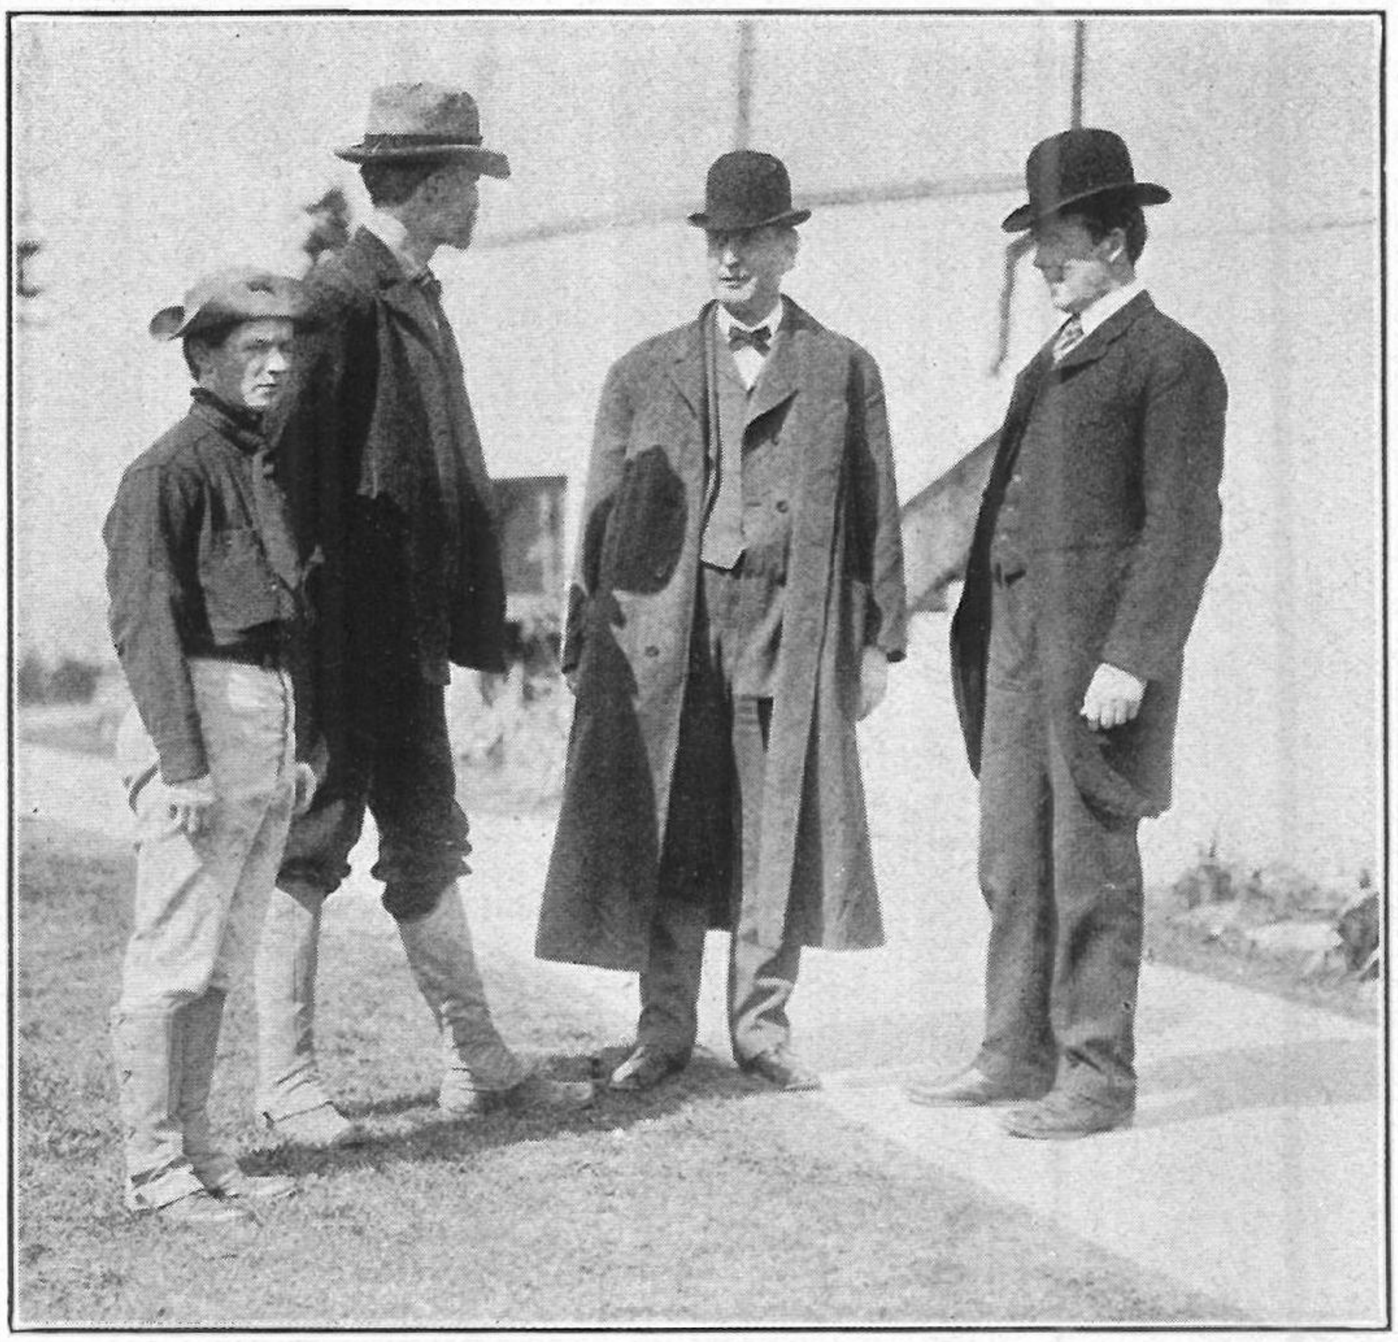

The moment of the principal undertaking at length arrived; the bell for luncheon rang. Some there are who would argue that campus day was not instituted to be celebrated at the table. Yet the fact itself remains that where the eats were, there was the slaughter the greatest. All you students who sat at the vast double-jointed table, uncover when the name of General Bessie Jaxtheimer is mentioned. Three plates for each man couldn't hold it all,—eight kinds of pie!

There were speeches, listened to and soon forgotten but the speakers and their faces are remembered. Governor Mead, Mr. Lancaster, the Public Highway man—not a robber, but an engineer, Mr. Jones—we cheered him not that all of us knew him, but that we liked his name, Deep Creek Jones; it smacked of comradie. Dr. Kane was called and his announcement of the future permanent observance of campus day met with unanimous approval.

Back to work, the freshman to the girls athletic field, the balance to path-making. Who pitied the youngsters burning brush in the hot sun—maybe the girls with the water pails (the sophomores exhausted the lemonade).

Nightfall found some work accomplished. The arboretum squad had transplanted two hundred shrubs which might have been destroyed in clearing the A. Y. P. Fair grounds; two new paths had been completed and a score of old ones improved. The ground around the observatory had been cleared off and the oval was put in excellent condition for the track meet next day. While the informal dance was being prepared for in the gymnasium—in Denny Hall, our debating team was winning a victory over Pacific University. The success won by Hemphill, Gillette and Norton furnished the fire works to round off an ideal holiday.

The College Hour

Every college and university has traditions that hold the memory of each old student years after leaving the institution. These traditions are kept alive by each succeeding generation of students for the reason that they appeal to a natural desire to become a participant in the vital things of the college, which always are the things that symbolize and emphasize the spirit and life, the aim and ideal, of those who join a community of kindred souls bent upon learning and improvement. At such times of life fellowship and friendship are essential. The college with an atmosphere of fellowship among the workers can always count upon loyalty and love from its vigorous young citizenship. These qualities are valuable to the institution, but they are also priceless to the individual. To establish a tradition that would crystalize, foster and cultivate this natural tendency in the University of Washington, the College Hour was instituted on March 18, 1908, by the Senior Class.

On the third assembly period of each month the students and professors assemble, one of the three upper classes acting as hosts. Fifteen minutes are devoted to forming or renewing acquaintances. A few college yells are given. This is followed by a short address by some prominent guest and then all join in college songs until the ringing of the gong again, when the meeting at once disperses, in orderly and silent procession, the women in one direction, the men in another.

Two College Hours have been held thus far, one on March 18, 1908, the other on April 15, 1908. At the first of these, the Seniors were hosts. The speaker on this occasion was Professor Edmond S. Meany.

The Juniors were hosts at the second College Hour. L. D. Grinstead, one of the Alumni representatives on the Board of Control, was the speaker.

The College Hour

Chivalric days are days of youth,
Are many days and hours forsooth
When gifts of Heaven bud and flower;
And ere the blossoms droop or sink
A chain is fashioned link by link
To clasp our friends in College Hour.

The world will claim its war of toil
When from each blow, each sure recoil,
Will come the confidence of power;
Of power magnetic forces send
Through air or sea from friend to friend,
From friends we won in College Hour.

Should one triumphant laurels win,
Where men amidst the noise and din
Acclaim his deeds and honors shower,—
As needle to the star will turn,
All heat and cold and space he'll spurn
To share his joy in College Hour.

At last the fires of life burn low,
And paths lead feeble feet and slow
Where vines a welcome shield embower;
Then hungry hearts yearn not in vain,
As comes once more the glad refrain
Of songs beloved in College Hour.

—Edmond S. Meany.

The Student's Elder Brother

Our life is like the vengeful ocean,
Fiercely tossed in stress and storm.
The boist'rous hours in wild commotion
Demons rear in spectral form—
Anger demons froth and frown,
Demons beckoning to drown—
Demons rear in spectral form.

The storm is spent, the long swell, rolling,
Heaves the soul on lifting crest
To sunlit heights where Joy, extolling,
Holds aloft the luring quest—
Lure of Wisdom ages old,
Fruits of Learning's fabled gold—
Holds aloft the luring quest.

Ah, who can see the heart throbs beating,
Measure depth or heighth of wave,
Or who command the soul retreating
Gather strength to hold and save—
Hold and grip each fragrant thought,
Save the fruits that striving bought—
Gather strength to hold and save!

May one protect and serve another,
Face the storm with arm and shield,
Advancing, stand as elder brother,
Bid the waves of gloom to yield—
Gloom of ignorance and hate,
Crumbling gloom of lazy fate—
Bid the waves of gloom to yield?

"I'm only an engineer," he said
As with a sad smile he shook his head
And tried to forget the fair co-ed
Who gave him the Chilcoot pass.

"He's only an engineer," she said,
And with a gay laugh she tossed her head,
As in the 'bubble she by him sped
With a student of Liberal Arts.

"For the Liberal Arts are the boys for me,
With their careless life so gay and free.
What a bother and bore always to be
Only an engineer."

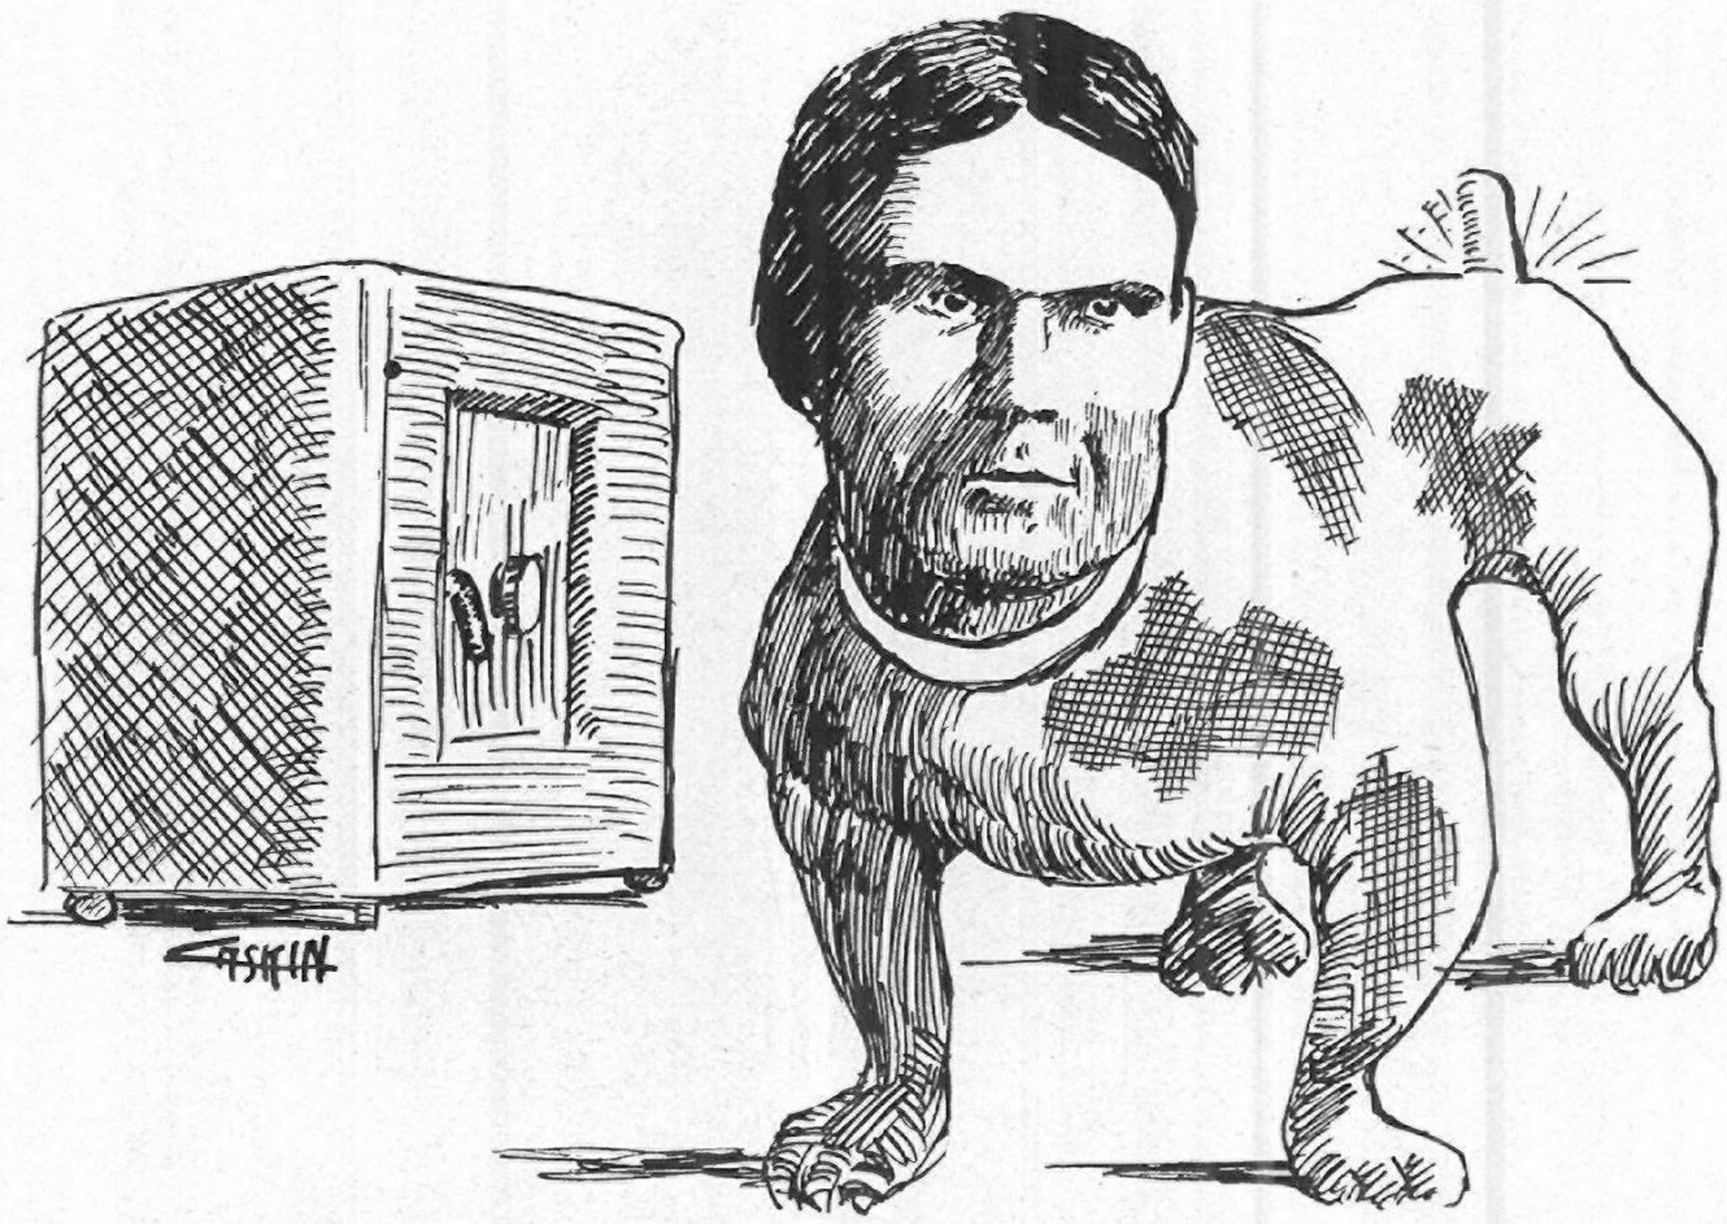

Our bright hero now to the faculty goes;
He tells of profs who are his foes
Of cons and flunks and other woes
Of only an engineer.

But he tempted fate in an evil hour,
Then over his head the storm clouds lower.
Now he is by virtue of Prexie's power,
Not even an engineer.

ALL THAT IS LEFT OF THE SONG BOOK.

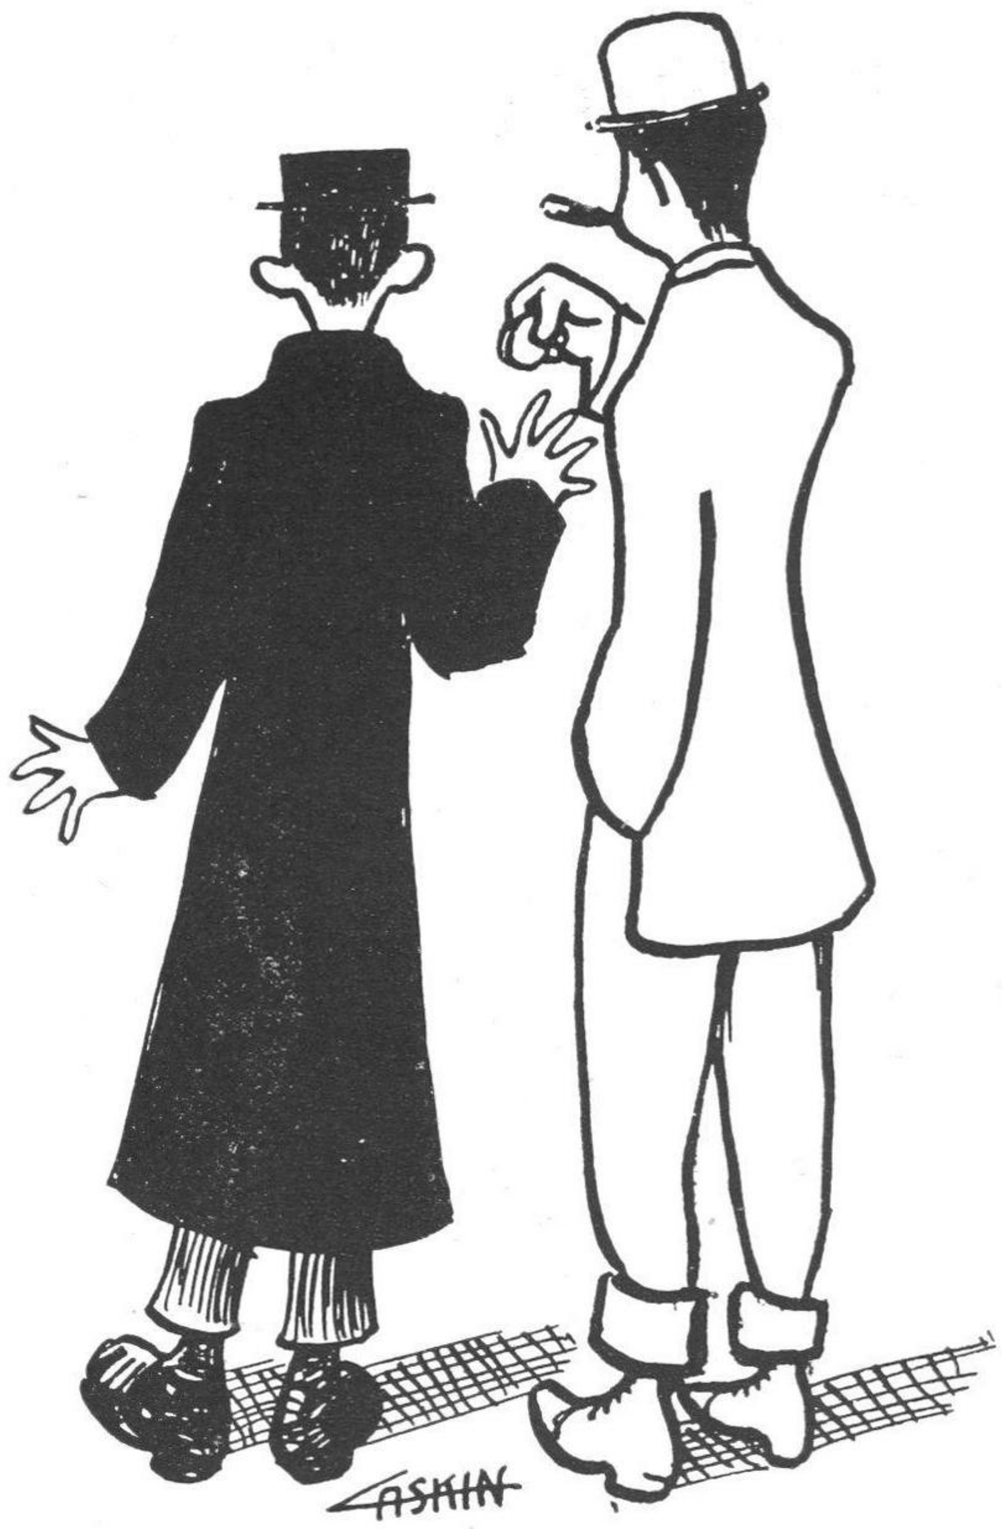

WHAT'S IN IT?

THERE'S Zednick, the Times' great muck-raker;
He's noted as chief mischief maker.
Of Priest and of sissies,
Of youths and of misses
He writes like a true nature faker.

THAT smile of Rasmusen's conceals many dark and evil secrets, for he offered us a dollar for each good mention of him that we put in the Tyee. For answer we refer to the surrounding pages. Nixie nit! You're too cheap, "Bill."

He's Our Trevor

In the days of long ago,
Forth against the fearsome foe
Rode the brave knights, as you know.

Now the foe comes just the same,
He is not a whit more tame,
He has only changed his name.

Comes to devastate our land,
Comes with all his lawless band—
There is one will bid him stand.

One who rushes to our aid,
One whose heart is undismayed—
'Tis Professor T. Kincaid.

He has risen in his wrath,
And has shouted, "By my troth
I will slay this gypsy moth.

"He is eating up our trees,
I will cross the raging seas,
I will bring him to his knees.

"I will track him to his lair,
I will seize him by the hair—
Cut off his supply of air.

"Be it frolic, be it fight,
When it comes to parasite,
Or to germ, I'm out of sight."

And the parasites grow pale,
The bacteria turn tail
When they hear he's on their trail.

When 'tis done, the great endeavor,
We will cry, "Banzai," forever,
He's our Trevor—ain't he clever!

"DON'T WORRY, GIRLS; I'M FROM KENTUCKY."

From "The Wave", Feb. 18, 1908

the position is yours.

I AM THE STATE.

The Wave, to be a power in college, must be newsy Students won't read a paper unless there is something in it which they can't read in down-town papers Fo. this reason, the editor believes that he is justified in ruling that the correspondents and reporters for Seattle papers are not eligible to try for a place on the staff. These, and these only, are barred.

The State His Flat

"I Am The State"!

Who said that?

LOUIS XIV of FRANCE
and ROY D. RUDIO

What does it mean?

Translated into plain talk, it means nothing more or less than "By reason of my position, I will do whatever I please."

LOUIS XIV DID AS HE PLEASED.
ROY D. RUDIO IS TRYING TO DO SO.

Will the Liberal-minded Students of the University of Washington stand for any such autocratic and arbitrary dictum?

WHY was ABE HURWITZ fired off the Wave staff?
BECAUSE Rudio says, "I AM THE STATE."
BECAUSE Hurwitz worked against Rudio in the recent election

WHY was HURWITZ fired off the Wave staff?
Rudio himself admits he is an able writer.

WHERE, then, is the REWARD OF MERIT promulgated in the recent election?

The editor has arbitrarily ruled that city reporters cannot remain on the staff. WHOM WAS IT INTENDED TO STRIKE? There are only three city reporters in the University, John W Campbell, Victor Zednick and Abe Hurwitz. Campbell resigned the editorship of the Wave because of lack of time. The new ruling therefore was not made to affect him. Zednick was editor of the Wave in 1905-1906. He has not applied for a position on the Wave either last year or this. The new decree therefore was not intended to affect him. But it was aimed at the only man working for a city paper who was already on the staff, and who had worked his way up to an associate editorship, and who had the temerity to oppose Rudio's candidacy for the editorship.

Precedent shows that Don McDonald, Jack Slattery, Floyd Hatfield, Victor Zednick, Bill Parker, John W. Campbell, and Harold Birkett, all former editors of the Pacific Wave, and a good many staff men, also worked on local dailies.

"I AM THE STATE," says Rudio.

Students, how about it? IS RUDIO THE STATE?

PROCLAMATIONS.

No. I. "I am the State."

Dual Orders of Lewis Hall

This is the tale of Ben Ezra bold,
Told by beggars gray and old
Who sit in the bazaars of far Bombay,
And this is the tale, or so they say.

Shiek Ben Ezra came one day
To America's shores from far Bombay,
His camels laden with many a jewel
Designed as a gift for the Orders dual.

For up in the West two Orders had sprung,
Whose praise by desert rumor sung;
Had told Ben Ezra of power and pride,
Of their Palace of brick and gardens wide.

Of Bark-Has-Wil-Een of memory old,
Of I-Oh-Tah-del-Tah with charter of gold,
Of knowledge and power from fasting gleaned,
Ben Ezra sat in his tent and dreamed.

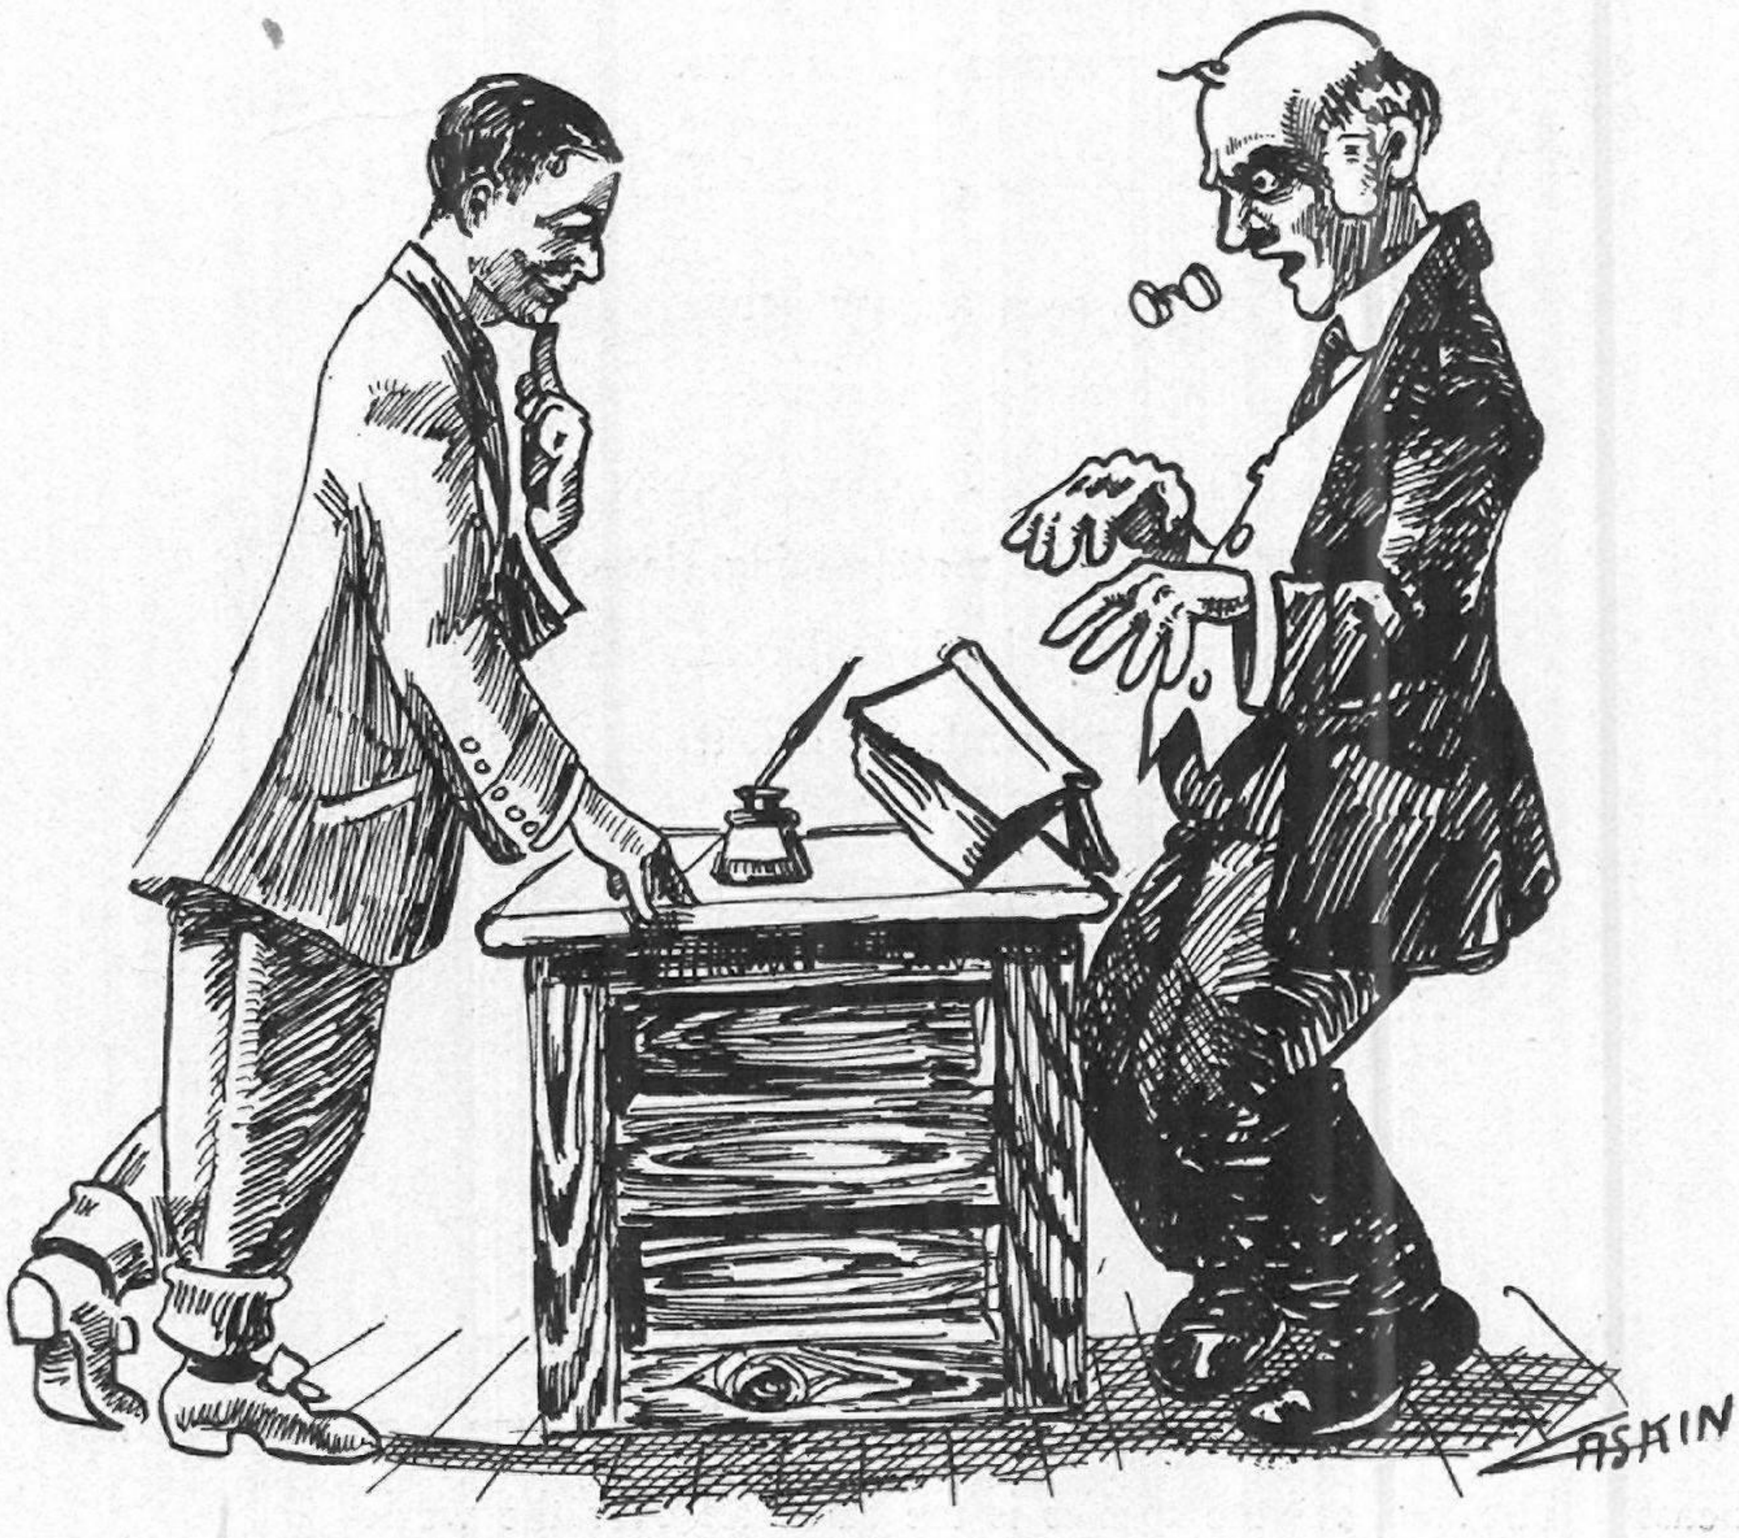

Then on his Bokhara in shady bower,
At the Muzzein's call from far off tower,
Ben Ezra kneeled and prayed alone.
Lo! a vision! "Arise, begone!"

Shiek Ben Ezra came and saw,
Came to the "U" of Arts and Law;
Saw the Palace called Lewis Hall,
Saw with a crash his visions fall.

Ben Ezra came, Ben Ezra went,
Back to his Arabs and his tent—
His camels and jewels (a whisper to you),
Packed deep in the hold of the Tangu Maru.

Four a fraternity

MY JUNIOR PLUG.

Thou are battered now and worn,
Thy top is crushed, thy brim is torn,
Sad indeed thy outward look,
But whenever of the Purple and Gold
My thoughts will turn, the fondest nook,
My Junior Plug will ever hold.

Straight and lofty, new and bright,
My Junior Plug once wert thou,
Pleasing then, in co-ed's sight,
But faded, torn, and broken now.

Let maidens giggle, seniors smile,
But I will keep thee yet a while,
Though scoffed by all, I love thee yet,
My Junior Plug, I'll ne'er forget.

THE CROW (Modernized)

Note:—This is the indebtedness referred to on Page 4.

Once upon a midnight dreary, while I pondered, weak and weary,
Over many a quaint and curious volume of forgotton lore,
While I nodded, nearly napping, suddenly there came a tapping,
Like a semi-human being, rapping at my chamber door,
" 'Tis some sophomore," I muttered, tapping at my chamber door,
Only that—a sophomore.

Presently my soul grew stronger, hesitating then no longer
"Say," said I, "Gawd bless you, your forgivness I implore,
But the fact is, I was napping, and so gently you came rapping, tapping at my chamber door,
That I scarce was sure I heard you;" here I opened wide the door—
Sophomore, cut pompadour!

Deep into that brush heap peering, long I stood there, wondering, fearing,
Doubting, seeing scenes no freshman ever dared to see before,
But the silence was unbroken, and the hay crop gave no token,
And the only word there spoken was my whispered "pompadour,"
And the nude and knotty cranium of this scare-crow sophomore,
Took itself from out my door, where it's welcome,
Nevermore.

Though he is a polyhedral
In the number of his sides,

To college he came for much learnin';
He's getting it fast,
If present things last,
For, ever to Nettie he's turnin'.

DEFINITIONS

ALLEN. Arbiter Eloquentiae.

Albers. A shyster lawyer from Podunk sometimes seen loafing on the campus.

Athletics. Washington's bugbear.

BOWLING. The Professor's despair.

COLLEGE spirit. A defunct sentiment said to have existed some time about the middle ages. Vague rumors of a renaissance are afloat from time to time.

Clubs. Organizations formed by ambitious aspirants to more honors.

Canoeing. The logical vocation of every true Washingtonian.

DUNLAP (Miss). Washington's prize bruiser (of the ivories).

Debate. Heating the argument by hot air.

EASTER. A bad egg.

Engineer. An unabashed intruder into the Paradise of higher education.

FRATERNITY. Any collection of snobs who want to conceal their mental deficiencies under Greek Letters.

Farce. (of Class of '09). We don't know; it's probably a different one today.

GLEE Club (Boys'). A troupe of Bowery burlesquers allowed to masquerade under the name of Washington.

General Manager. A figurehead in a $30.00 "Tailored Ready."

HARD luck. What happened to Birkett.

IDEALS. Next to the coin of the Republic, the easiest thing to get rid of at College.

JUNIOR. The finest product of the evolution of the first grade.

KNOCKER. An uncomfortably practical individual who still persists in that fool's search for the Truth.

LAW. New and complete rules for successfully evading the country's statutes.

MUSIC. Hideous discords inspired by the eccentric gymnastics of C. O. Kimball.

Moritz. Champion contortionist of the facial muscles.

NOTHING. Absolute vacuity—Lack of matter or substance—Synonym, St. Thomas.

OSTROM. The cause of much worry to the W. C. T. U.

PRIEST. Official dispenser of the glad hand.

Politics. Contagious disease very prevalent on the campus in spring and fall—almost always fatal.

Philosophy. How to look on College politics from Savery's standpoint.

QUEENING. For information concerning this vocation you are respectfully referred to unattached faculty members and student reporters for downtown papers.

RUSHING. An inspection of the Freshman's pedigree conducted in a manner similar to old-style football—whence derivation.

Rupp. Unruffled guardian of his sacred dignity.

SPHYNX. Inexorable thinking machine who hands out the fishy glare to would-be logicans.

TIBBALS. The man on the fence.

UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON. Title of a country estate, now the personal property of "General Manager" (which see).

VACATION. A much needed opportunity for the faculty to think up more hard ones.

WASHINGTON. To some the Father of his Country, to others, a State; to us, our Alma Mater.

Wave. A disturbance in the U of W's mud puddle.

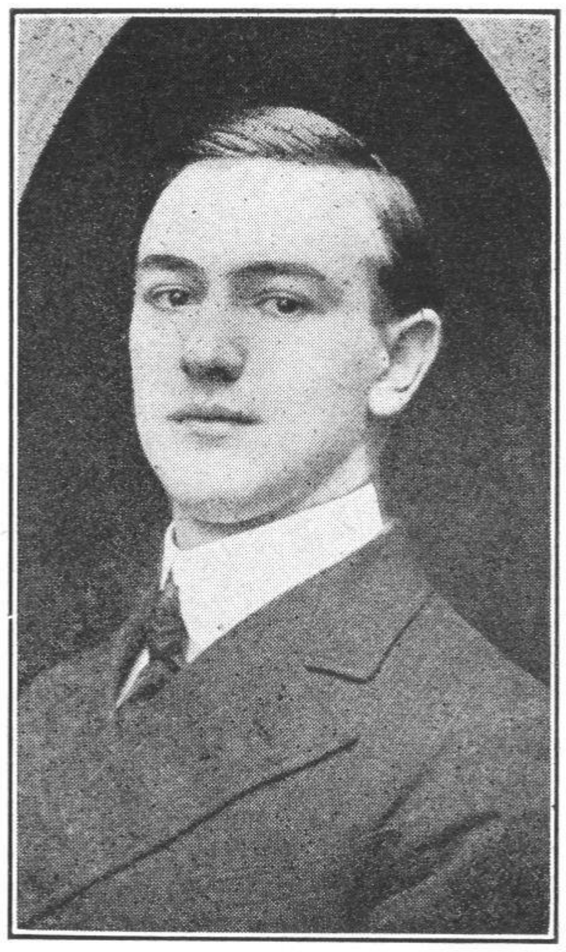

XAMS. A whole semester's mental agony concentrated into three hours of torture.

YAWN. The physical phenomenon sure to follow the perusal of these lines.

Young Profs. Gauzy-winged butterflies of the campus. One or two more resemble grasshoppers.

ZOOLOGY. Paradise of Captain Isbell's baseball team.

Do You Think You Would Like Me Better

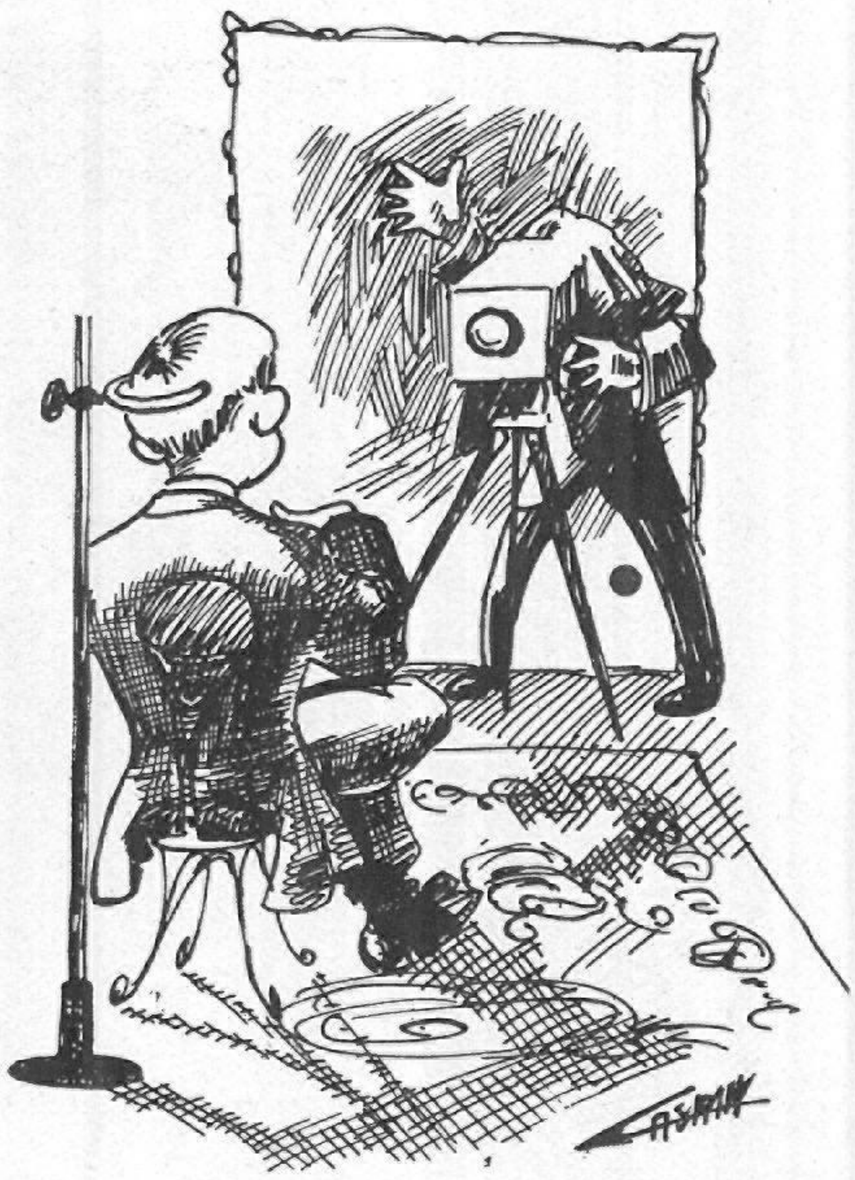

Or a Parody

Her complaint:—

Do you think you'd like me better
If I looked like an Alpha Xi?
Or lived in a house like the Gamma Phi;
Or dressed like a swell D. G.?
If my hair would curl like a Pi Phi girl
Or I studied like a little A. T.
Though I am as much a lady
As a Kappa Kappa G.?

His:—

Perhaps you'd like me better,
If I sang like a Phi Delt Theta
Or queened like a Sigma Nu boy
Though I worked like a good little Beta
If I loafed like a Kappa Sigma
Or was bound by Fiji ties
Or I tried to be exclusive
Like our friends, the Sigma Chis.

Rasmusses the Two-Times

In prostrate Egypt in olden day,
An insolent tyrant held his sway
Where sluggish canals to Nile run,
Laid claim to work by others done,
And on many a temple and pyramid
The cartouch of others with his own he hid
Thus to modern day the story is told,
How great a scoundrel and grafter bold
Was Rameses the Two-times.

We can draw today a parallel
As to do his bidding, we crowd pele-mele
And he stands and smiles with folded arms
Oh! little our pain his pride alarms.
He dreams of girls and love's sweet sting
And lazily puffs forth another ring;
To him the wine, to us the lees!
A toast, a toast to Rasmusses
Our Rasmusses the Two-times.

He dreams of glory and after fame
In letters of fire he'd write his name
On Gym and Dorm and Chemistry Shack,
Ad building, boat-house, alas! alack!
He can not climb he fears a risk,
Or the flag pole would be his obelisk
And from its summit a pennant he'd fly
Inscribed in letters ten feet high:
"RASMUSSES THE TWO-TIMES."

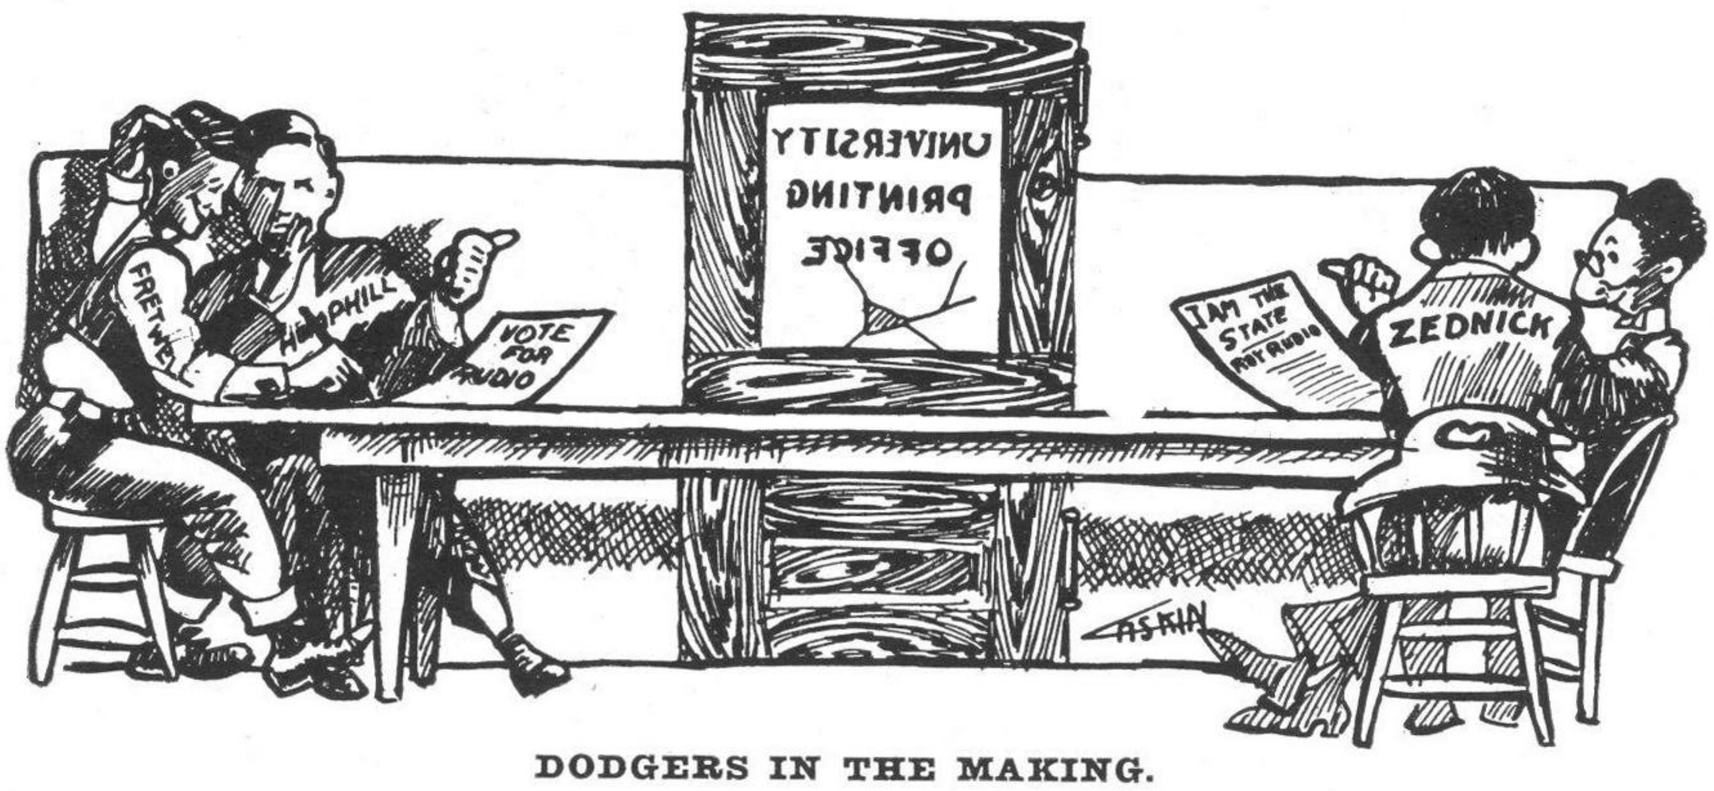

The Phi Delts had three little dogs,
Three handsome little beasts;
They filled themselves like Phi Delt hogs
At many Phi Delt feasts.

And then they sad were laid away
In little graves, these three;
Phi Phi Phi is all the headstones say
As shown in last Tyee.

Another dog who looked like sin
They named the poor thing Rodger
They made a fourth grave and put in
This harmless Phi Delt lodger.

THE POPULAR MELODY

As rendered by MARY HEYES

Will Sweet, Doan Sweet,
Sweet is my true sweetheart,
We don't chew taffy or chocolate chips
But in deep silence we press our lips;
We do not reck of friend or foe,
He is my brave and burly beau.
No candy I'll eat
For there's none so sweet
As my Willie Doan Sweet—Ain't he sweet?

Facts That Should Go Down in History

Those few of the Sigma Nu's who were left in college at the close of the first semester gave a farewell party to their departing brothers.

The Kappas had a long rushing season. They will probably shorten it next fall.

The Delta Gamma's have opened up a matrimonial agency in opposition to the Gamma Phi's. They seem to be beating the latter out—rather curious that they should, this being Leap Year. Their record, four announced and more in sight.

The Gamma Phi's have offered a $50 cut glass punch bowl to the first of their number who brings in a Beta pin.

The Weary Friars

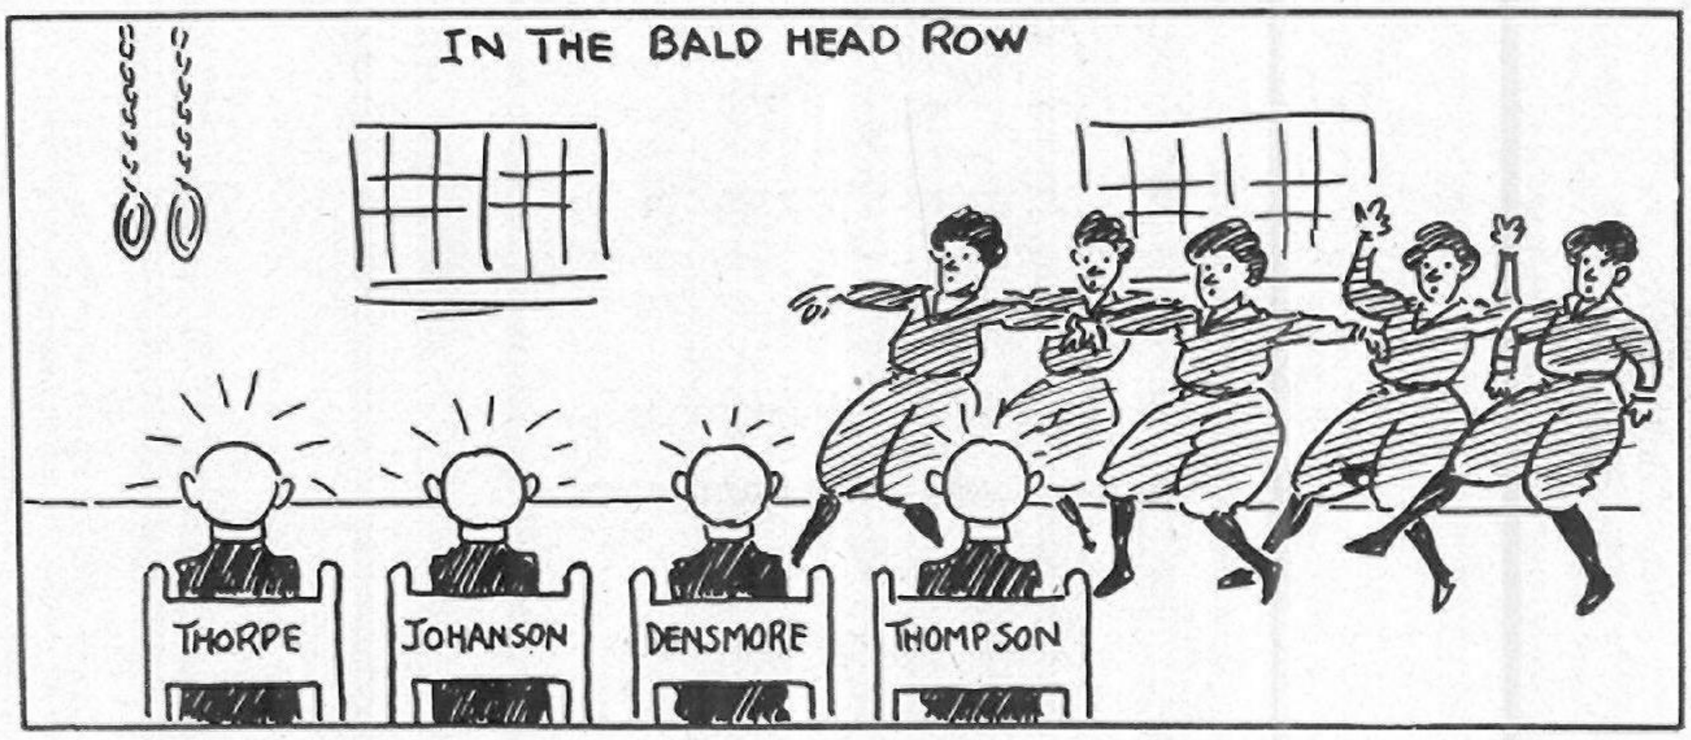

A Friar of the legion
  Sits soaking up the beers;
There's plenty of women's laughter
  And none of women's tears;
The Rathskeller's well lighted,
  The Coliseum's out
And each new round of tall ones
  Is greeted with a shout.

But our Friar's sad and weary,
  His head on his hands he's propped
As he ponders on the lemon,
  In his lap by co-eds dropped.
For the girls' glee club, of Metcalfe weary
  Have sent him on his way,
He drinks and broods and ponders
  Till his comrades to him say—

"Take a brace, old chap, be merry
  There are other things to fight
Such as booze and—say, I tell you
  We'll good and fix them right
Let the co-eds have their Rasmusen
  To labor, work and pant
We'll revive that good old comedy
  We'll produce our 'Charley's Aunt.' "

It's the same old mossgrown story,
Its the same old song and dance;
"We just couldn't give it this year,
No dates booked in advance,
But give us time, we'll have it
If it takes all year to learn;
The general's still our leader
For we've got brains to burn."

For three long years they've tried it,
And couldn't make it go;
Some day they will decide it,
"Hammer and Tongs" won't have a show
May be next year will see it,—
Of course we couldn't say,
But from present indications
'Charley's Aunt's' still on her way.

Decorations and Bats After Hager — Not Quite So far

Hail! Sparkling grape. Hail! Oh frothy brew whose potent aid has heretofore raised me from this sphere of mundane things. Thrice hail, oh fragrant hop, give me the power to sing ravings of an inebriate mind.

When yet Life's course (1) was one-third run, I left the wood of common schools to mount the hill of higher education. Fearful of the way I eyed the stony heights with misgivings in my soul; but girding up my loins I strode onward towards those beetling cliffs.

But lo! Ere I had made trial of the ascent (2) three beasts, horrible to the eye, barred my further progress. They roared with half human speech and the burden of their lay was "insufficient credits." I stood trembling half minded to turn back, when suddenly an apparition clothed in priestly vestments stood beside me.

"I am thy guide (3) sent by the Registrar who in his zeal for increased enrollment uses every lawful means to circumvent these, the Admission Committee. Fear not, but follow and know that before you may win yonder mountain top you must become cognizant of the snares and pitfalls of college life. Follow then and pay heed to the lessons which I will inculcate."

Aside we turned and my Leader descended into a narrow vale whose murky, sulphuric vapors (4) dimmed my vision and gave promise of the woeful sights to follow. As we pursued the tortuous pathway the air was darkened with a cloud of beings, aimlessly drifting about us. In answer to my unspoken question my Guide addressed me in these terms:

"These are the inconsequential; those who lived without praise or blame on earth are here, in this state of innocuous desuetude, in which you see them. Here may be seen Gilbert Duffy, Rena Strout and others of their ilk." Then I to him:

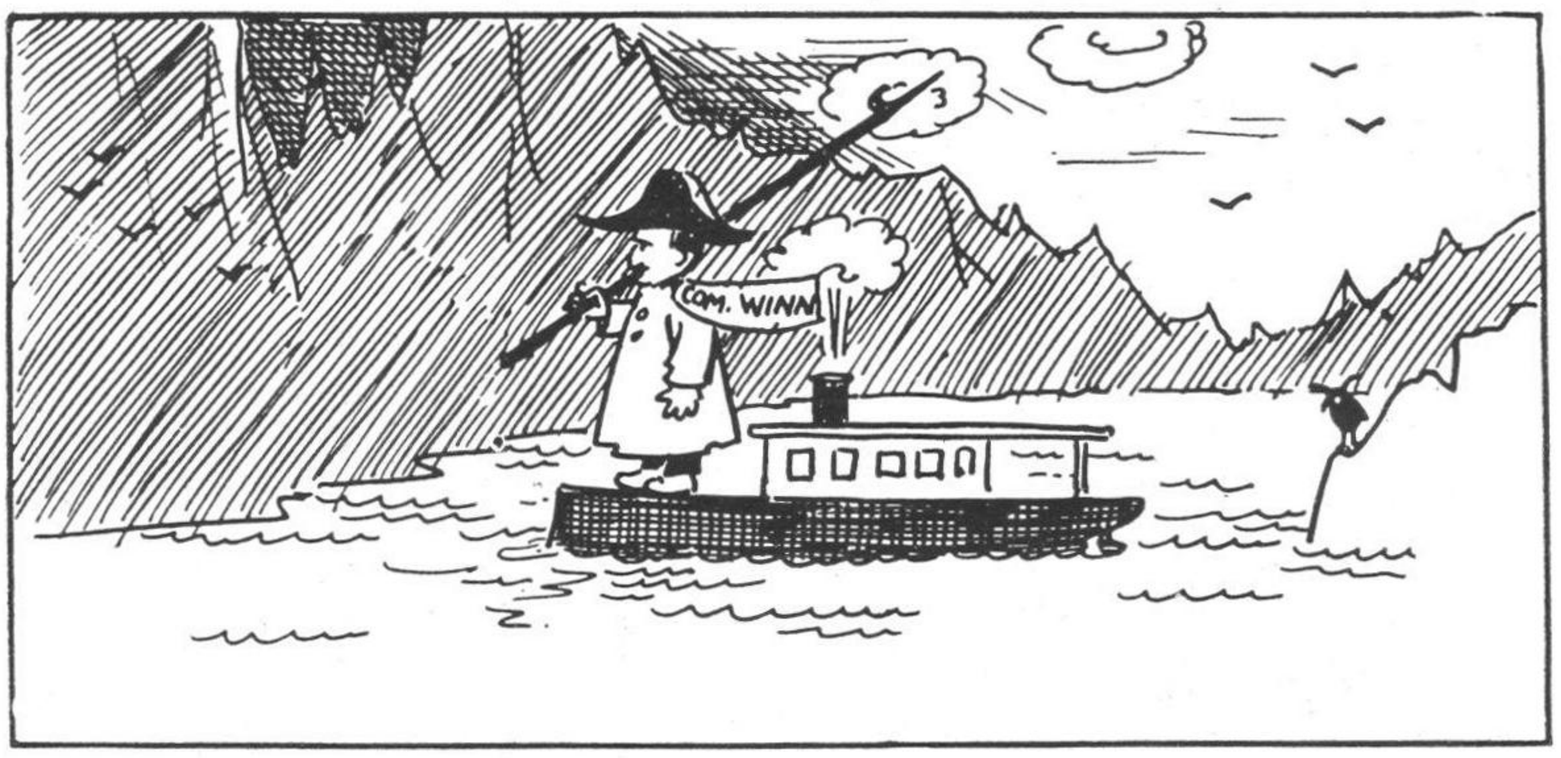

"And is there no redemption for these unhappy wights." And he to me:

"It is unseemly to show interest in these nonentities."

Shamefacedly I followed on, when looking up I saw the valley closed by a wall of masonry, pierced by a gateway above whose portals were carven these sentences:

"Thru me is the way to the city of lushed people. Thru me is the way to the regions of eternal dispeace. Leave all hope and three dollars (5) behind all ye who enter here."

Before my gaze was stretched the sinuous length of Acheron, that hellish river. Moored at the bank was a dismal craft whose bowels clanked and groaned in unison with the imprecations of the commanding demon. Foul vapors issued from the ferry's side which, mingling with the sulphurous oaths, mounted upwards.

Then I to my leader:

"Who is this blasphemous creature and why waxeth he so exceeding wroth?" Then he to me: "This is the ferryman, Commodore Winn, who carries the lost souls across these gloomy reaches. He is of a choleric nature and he mutters, 'defective combustion.' This is the cause of his ire."

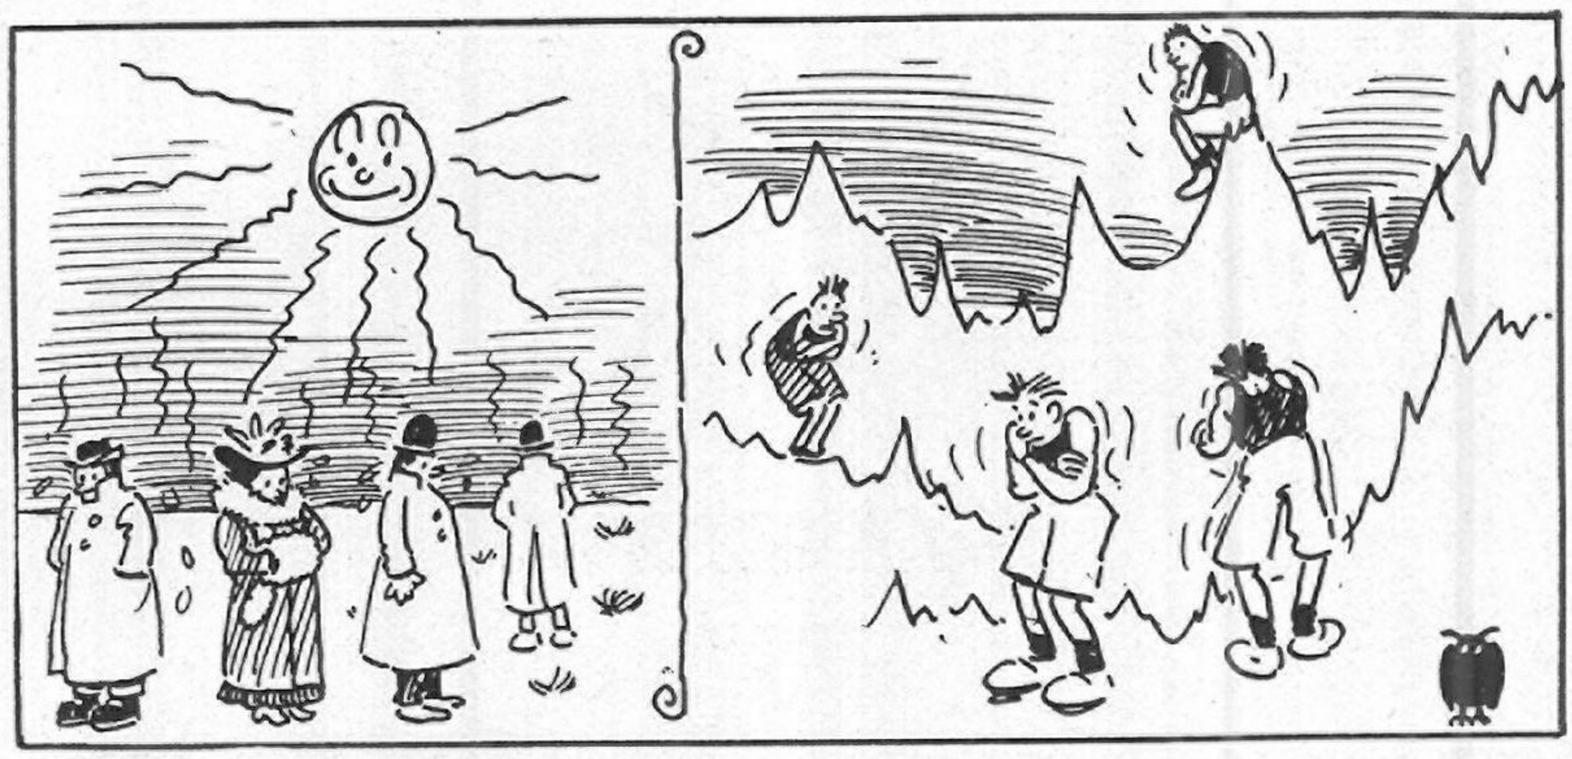

Clambering aboard we sped away and halted not till the distant shore was reached. In the distance the lights of a colossal pile wavered and flickered: and my master—"yon is the abode of those learned lights who majored in English Lit." As we neared the castle I saw a throng approaching. Scanning their countenances I recognized McGlinn, Brinker, Sinclair—she of the caustic pen—and a host of lesser lights among them, Hancock, Olds (6) Coan, Dalby and Roe, members, these latter, of Padelford's class for men. (7)

My leader anticipating my question while yet it trembled on my tongue, said:

"This is the Limbo of the Learned. Here they live with neither hope nor pain, disillusioned—enough. Now shall we descend into the first Circle."

Slowly I ventured forward, my master encouraging me the while. In response to my look of wonder, he said, "Fear not; the worst is yet before thee. Summon thy courage and I will elucidate the phenomena thou seest." Bending my gaze around I saw that the first circle was made up of two ledges, one of more than tropical heat and the other of biting cold not unlike that of the subterranean German room. Stretched on the burning sands exposed to the full power of the crisping heat were figures clad in the heights of winter fashions. Among those tortured creatures I saw the portly figure of J. Murphy and by his side writhed Roy Rudio. Great drops of sweat rolled down their piteous cheeks and they called unceasingly for water, that unaccustomed beverage.

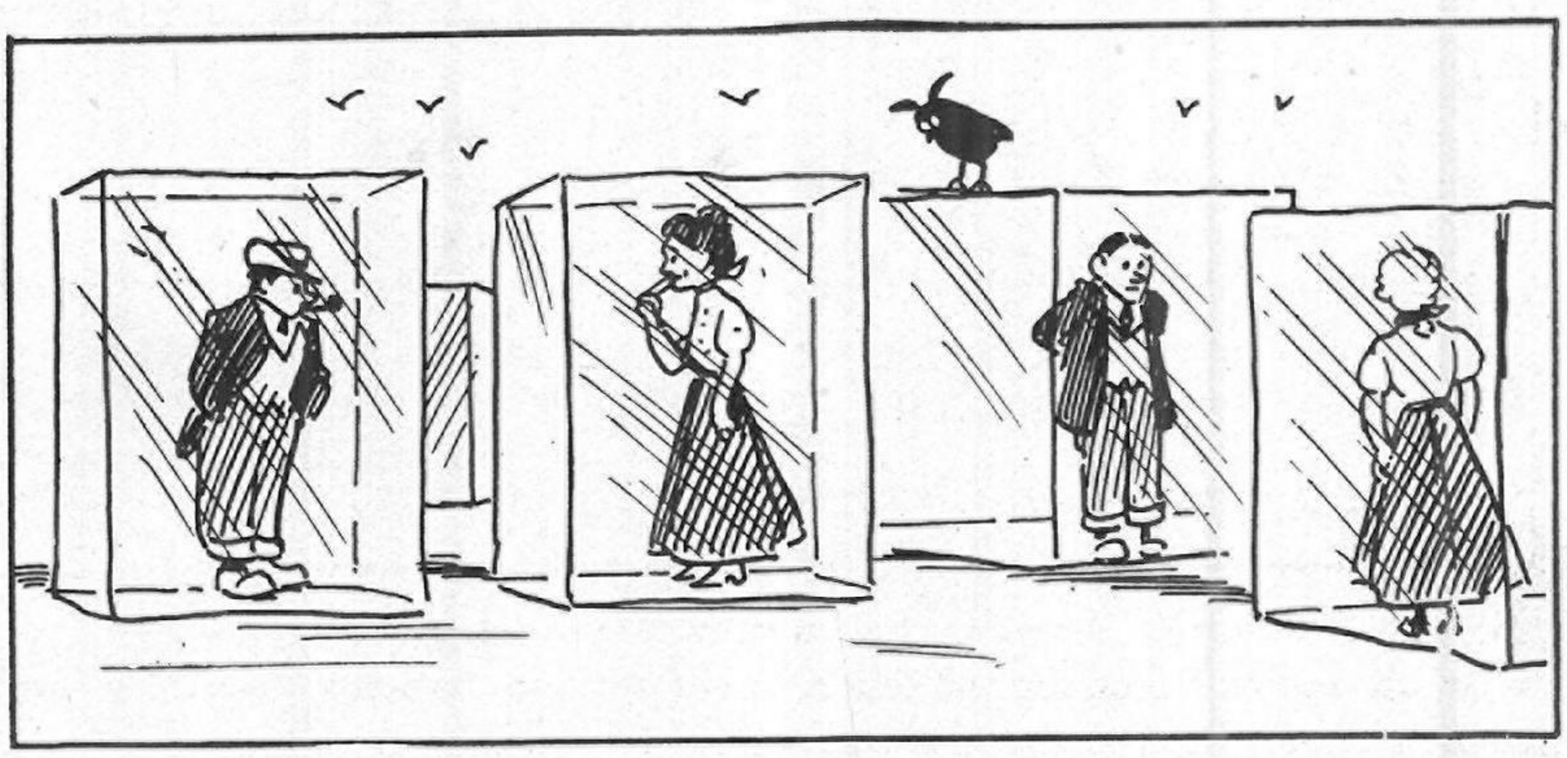

Near at hand among the thronged shapes I saw Eunice Engeland—she of forensic notoriety. (8)

Not being able to bear that terrible sight I turned my gaze toward the region of eternal cold which comprised the opposite ledge. There pacing up and down, exposed to the bleak and chilling blasts, I saw a multitude clothed in the scantiness of summer styles. (9) Bareheaded the men, and the women topped with "Merry Widow" hats. (10)

Among those present were Lillian Lohman, Prudence Wyman, Roy Rudio and Pat Tammany.

Onward and downward we went, towards the Second Circle. As we neared its confines a sound smote my ears like unto the winds soughing thru the cedars. "You hear the sighs, the ardent sighs of yonder imprisoned queeners," said my leader, and there before me were ranged the glass cells (11) of the culprits. Ah, how many did I here recognize! Oh, woeful sight that they should be brought to this pass. There were Tex and Teg, Hurwitz, Reser and Bobbie; beyond, Wayland, Rasfussen, (12) Yantes, Freiday and Georgeson. The sight was too much; half carried by my master I staggered to the rim of the Third Circle. On one side there was grouped a vast concourse of shades, some wildly gesticulating and mouthing meaningless phrases, others writing illegible proclamations. (13)

"These are the politically ambitious," said my companion. "The most violent are Campbell, Pope and Herman Allen. Across the Gulf are those who strove for social honors. Among them notice Violet Dungan, Lela Martin and Gertrude Walsh." In a niche overshadowed by the wall are two Senior Engineers who on earth were afflicted with a desire to appear intellectual. But enough of this; let us hence to the Fourth Circle."

So saying my Leader piloted me on into the purlieus of a vast library. Then he to me, "These are the banausic (14) flunkers. Eternally here they pore over ponderous tomes, always in dread of exams. Here are Bunny Meagher, Art Lavalle, Rossae Schwartz, Hi Camp and Alice Payne; let us leave them to their just torments and proceed to the Fifth Circle where is the Cave of the Gluttonous. We will not enter the stygian blackness of this hole; we will but pause and listen to the mutterings of the damned. Hear them as they vainly hail the shades of departed garcons. Mayst hear also the maudlin speech and ribald choruses of the notorious Sophomore quartette." (15)

Alarmed by the rathskellian tumult we hastily descended towards the Sixth Circle, devoted to the punishment of eavesdroppers, buttinskys, talebearers and others of like kidney. Here was many a familiar face but mercy forbids me to unmask them. Some had elephantine ears; others darted forth forked tongues from which dripped venom. Seeing me dismayed, my Leader led me down to the next circle, the bottom-most.

"This," said my Leader, "the culmination of all the evil which went before, is devoted to the punishment of the basest and most despicable of criminals, knockers and arch-disturbers." (16)

I looked and saw with their backs towards me at tables, rapidly writing on tablets which received no impressions, many mal-contents. Ever and anon a gargaruntian voice roared, "Copy," and with that sound ringing in my ears I fainted, to awake without the Hierophant, under the stars.

A Wonderful Record

The Daily and Sunday Times Broke All Records in 1907, Both in Quantity of Advertising and Circulation

THE DAILY TIMES IN THE MONTH OF DECEMBER, 1907, AVERAGED 53,949 COPIES

THE SUNDAY TIMES IN THE MONTH OF DECEMBER, 1907, AVERAGED 70,125 COPIES

As astounding as the assertion may seem to be, The Seattle Daily and Sunday Times carried MORE ADVERTISING in the year 1907 than the NEW YORK WORLD or the CHICAGO TRIBUNE—as the following figures will show:

City.	Population.	Name.	Lines Carried.
Seattle	260,000	The Times	11,617,846
New York	4,000,000	N. Y. World	11,275,892
Chicago	2,000,000	The Tribune	9,720,288

From the foregoing it will be observed that The Seattle Daily and Sunday Times beat the New York Daily and Sunday World 341,954 lines and led The Chicago Tribune by 2,347,258 lines.
